IGNORING STOP-LIGHT UNDOING CHICAGO YOUTH

Faces Death as Result of Developments Which Followed Arrest

Chicago, Nov. 19—(AP)—Police Capt. Ray Crane announced today that a youth arrested for a traffic violation had confessed abducting and attacking a south side matron and shooting a motorist who had befriended him.

Held at the Hyde Park police station, the prisoner identified himself as Charles Griesemer, 19.

Martin Ward, Assistant United State's Attorney filed charges of kidnaping, transporting the victim across state lines and inflicting bodily harm upon the victim against Griesemer, who is a Chicagoan.

The charges were filed before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker upon a complaint sworn out by special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Ward said the charges made Griesemer liable to prosecution under the Federal Lindbergh law which provides for the death penalty. He said a warrant would be served on the youth probably on Monday or Tuesday and he would be turned over to the custody of the Federal government.

Police Captain Ray Crane said Griesemer was identified by Mrs. Adele Schriener, wife of a grain broker, as the man who abducted her, and also by William R. Smith of St. Paul, who was shot and critically wounded.

Records showed Griesemer was wanted for violation of his parole last May from St. Charles reformatory, Crane said.

Attacked Kidnap Victim

The youth signed a statement, Crane reported, admitting he had abducted Mrs. Schreiner in her automobile October 25 and held her prisoner for five hours, during which time he forced her to drive him to Gary, Ind., where he robbed her and attacked her twice.

Crane said Griesemer also had admitted he was the hitchhiker who shot Smith near Watseka, Ill., two weeks ago. The officer quoted the youth as saying he shot Smith because the salesman had no money in his possession.

Smith told authorities he had picked up his attacker near Kankakee. The bullet which struck him lodged near the base of his spine and both of his legs were paralyzed. He was removed to St. Paul for an operation.

Griesemer was arrested yesterday by a squad after he had driven through a stoplight.

The prisoner was paroled to his mother last May after serving 15 months at St. Charles for an automobile theft.

Navy Lets Contracts for Three Battleships

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—The navy department awarded contracts today for the construction of three battleships at an expected cost of well over $150,000,000.

One will be built in Newport News, Va., another at Quincy, Mass., both in private yards, and the third at the Norfolk, Va., navy yard.

The contract for a fourth battleship was not awarded, pending further study of bids by the navy department.

The Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation of Quincy, Mass., was awarded the contract for constructing one battleship at a cost of $49,815,000, the company to furnish the main propelling machinery but not to develop the plans for the battleship.

Another battleship will be built by the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Company at a cost of $49,540,000. The government will furnish and the company will install propelling machinery for this ship. The company will develop plans for its own use in building this ship and also for use in other yards.

The third ship, to be built in the government's yard at Norfolk, will cost approximately the same amount as the other two.

The private contract prices are subject to the usual adjustments due to unexpected labor and material costs. The contracts by no means cover the final cost of the battleships due to further expenses for armament.

Salesman' Death Near Mendota Due to Hurts

Mendota, Ill., Nov. 19—(AP)—A coroner's jury decided today that Herbert F. Harden, 55, an Elgin, Ill., salesman, died of crushing injuries about the chest and neck suffered when his automobile crashed into a culvert on route 34 near here on November 10.

Investigators at first believed Harden had suffered a heart attack while driving. His body was found in the wrecked automobile.

Dr. Charles Harris and Dr. E. C. Cook performed an autopsy.

Can't Breathe

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 19—(AP)—Physicians and a fire department inhalator squad at Edward Sparrow hospital began today a second day of efforts to keep life in the body of a nine-pound baby boy born yesterday to Dr. and Mrs. Clifford D. Crockett.

Ever since the child was born shortly before 7 A. M. Friday, it has been unable to breathe normally and the fire department crew has worked with the inhalator. The firemen said that on one or two occasions the infant apparently breathed of its own accord for a minute or two but was unable to continue.

Dr. H. R. Meyers, attending the child, said he had been unable to find any obstruction in its lungs or throat and could not account for its inability to breathe. He said he was considering the use of an "iron lung" and added that although artificial respiration had been necessary almost constantly since the baby's birth, it was "holding its own."

The child's father is a dentist.

CIVICS PUPILS OF HIGH SCHOOL GOVERN CITY DEC. 10

Mayor William V. Slothower, in presenting a resolution to the city council last evening, announced that there were insufficient funds in the city's contingent fund with which to pay for the expense of moving the city rest room building. It was also stated that about $10,000 remained in the public benefit fund and the council voted unanimously empowering the city treasurer to transfer the sum of $3,000 from the public benefit to the contingent fund, this sum to be used in defraying the expense of moving the city rest room building. The resolution provided that the amount borrowed be replaced with the collection of taxes in May, 1939.

Calvin Castle of the high school faculty appeared before the council and explained that the civics class of the high school preferred to take over the reins of city government next month instead of in the spring. He suggested Dec. 10 as a date acceptable to the class and faculty and the members of the council extended the invitation to the class.

Commissioner Cal G. Tyler publicly expressed his appreciation at the council meeting for the fine response accorded the present annual Red Cross drive in Dixon.

Bridge Worker Takes An Unexpected Bath

Earl Genz of Nelson, employed by the Shappert Engineering Company on the new Galena avenue bridge, tested the depth and temperature of the water in Rock River yesterday afternoon about 2:30, without ill effect. He was working on the false work at the north end of the tramway when he missed his footing and fell into the deep hole where the north pier formerly stood.

Genz is an excellent swimmer and when he came to the surface he swam to the tramway, climbed up the structure and was rushed to the office, where he changed from his wet to dry clothing and resumed his duties. To Superintendent Max Summers, Genz stated that he could not state the depth of the water at the point where he fell in as he did not strike the bottom of the river, but he was certain that the temperature of the water was many degrees below that of body heat.

Dickson May Request Recount of Iowa Votes

Mason City, Nov. 19—(AP)—L. J. Dickinson (R) last night indicated he would ask a recount in the Iowa senatorial race in which he apparently was beaten by Senator Guy M. Gillette (D.)

Addressing a Republican victory dinner, Dickinson, a former senator said:

"I think the people of Iowa believe we should have a recount down to the last precinct."

The Associated Press totals, including official reports from 76 of Iowa's 99 counties, gave Gillette a lead of 2,371 votes. The latest totals were: Gillette 413,522, Dickinson 411,151. The official state canvas is scheduled for Monday, November 28. Gillett's margin is less than three-tenths of one per cent.

ANTI-SEMITISM SPREADING IN U. S., AGENT STATES

Dies Committee Investigator Sees Anti-Religious Feeling

BULLETIN.

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—The house committee investigating un-American activities received testimony today that there was "a rising tide of anti-Semitism and anti-religious feeling through the country."

This testimony was presented by John C. Metcalfe, committee investigator, who asserted that he "situation in Europe" had contributed to anti-Semitic feeling in this country.

Metcalfe testified 135 organizations had been reported to the committee as fomenting "class, racial or religious hatred."

About 75 per cent of the organizations, the witness said, are "rackets" established for the profit of their promoters.

Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the committee, noting that all the organizations were incorporated, said he would write to secretaries of state in the various states and request the groups be required to comply with statutes making it mandatory for corporation to file annual reports.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS.
By the Associated Press.

Nazi Germany today banned the name of Jehovah and all prophets of the Old Testament from Protetstant churches as anti-Jewish drives continued in Germany and Italy.

An order by President Friedrich Werner of the Supreme Evangelical Church Council said the name of Jehovah must be erased wherever it is displayed in Protestant churches in Germany.

Authoritative sources in Rome said 15,000 Jews had been dropped from government and private jobs within the past four days.

France gave Italy recognition of her African conquests when Andre Francois-Poncet, new ambassador to Rome, presented his credentials to Vittorio Emanuele as King of Italy and Emperor of Ethiopia.

In Lithuania, Dr. Ernst Neumann, Memel German leader, announced formation of a uniform German youth movement similar to the Hitler youth in Germany and declared he would follow Nazi racial policy in the Memel territory.

Opposition to Daladier.

Rightist opposition, joining outspoken protests from the left, raised new obstacles against French Premier Daladier's "three-year plan" of decrees to reestablish sound finances.

Francois de la Rocque's French Social party and Jacque Doriot's French People's party called for overthrow of the Daladier cabinet. The French Social party called the premier's plan "dangerous and inopportune."

The lower house of Czechoslocakia granted autonomy to Slovakia and Carpatho-Ukraine (Ruthenia) as that country, shorn of nearly one-third of her territory by Germany, Poland and Hungary, sought a new constitution that would represent a compromise in the principles of dictatorship and democracy.

Official news reports in Prague said terrorist bands from Hungary and Poland had caused six deaths in two days on the border of Ruthenia. Official Czechoslovak sources attributed the disorders to attempts to persuade Germany and Italy to give Poland and Hungary a common frontier through cession of Ruthenia to Hungary.

No Discrimination

Danville, Pa., Nov. 19—(AP)—If fire trucks in this town of 7,000 can't get to a blaze going 25 miles an hour, the building will just have to burn. Chief Burgess Harry E. Trumbower imposed the speed limit and warned $5 fines would be levied for violations.

OFFICERS WITHOUT CLUES IN AMBUSH SLAYING OF YOUTH

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Two killers lay in ambush outside an apartment building in a quiet Queen's residential district last night and shot down John F. O'Hara, young financial investigator for Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

The apparently studied slaying left police today without a clue or motive. O'Hara, 26, a respected businessman who was graduated from Syracuse University in 1933, lived quietly with his mother and 16-year-old sister.

O'Hara's assailant's lay in wait for him at an entrance to the 500-family apartment house and felled him with two shots. In their flight to a waiting automobile, they turned and fired twice more at O'Hara's prostrate body. A policeman's 8-year-old son was wounded in the arm by a ricocheting bullet.

O'Hara returned to New York two weeks ago from a New Orleans inquiry for his firm. Money found in his wallet eliminated robbery as a motive. Police extended their investigation to cities where O'Hara had made financial surveys recently.

Patrolman Joseph Monahan, whose son was wounded, was just approaching the apartment as the first shots were fired. He drew his pistol and chased the two men down the street. He said there apparently were other men in the car at which he fired several shots.

Preliminary examination disclosed that O'Hara was shot in the neck and head.

SCHOLL FARM HOME NORTHWEST OF DIXON FUEL OF FLAMES

The beautiful farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Scholl, one and three-quarter miles west of the Cavanaugh corners, northwest of Dixon, was burned to the ground shortly before noon yesterday. The fact that the wind was from the north and the prompt arrival of the community fore truck from Polo, prevented the destruction of all the farm buildings. The Polo fire department members confined the flames to the large nine-room residence and succeeded in saving a small summer kitchen which adjoined the burning structure.

Mr. and Mrs. Scholl were engaged in raking and burning leaves in the yard and it is believed that sparks set fire to wrappings on a pipe which extended through a small hole in the foundation of the house. The flames had got between the walls and the fire had gained considerable headway before Mrs. Scholl entered the house to find it filled with smoke. She immediately summoned the Polo fire department.

Neighbors assisted in removing practically all of the household effects from the building before the walls collapsed. It was stated today that the loss both to the residence and its contents were parially covered by insurance. The property is known as the Rennie Anderson farm and the residence property was erected about 40 years ago.

Child-Bride Wants to Come Back to Home

Los Angeles, Nov. 19—(AP)—Fourteen-year-old Velma Robinson Green, married two weeks ago in Wickliffe, Ky., to Jones Greene, 64, wants to return to her Tallula, Ill., home, Policewoman Lucille Shelton said today.

The policewoman said the child-bride would be kept at Juvenile Hall until she receives a reply from Velma's father, Edgar Robinson, to a query regarding possible institution of annulment proceedings.

Green is at liberty on $500 bond on a charge of possessing a blackjack, defined as a deadly weapon. Greene waived preliminary hearing and indicated he would plead guilty to the charge, declaring: "I want to get this whole thing over with as soon as possible."

Adam H. Stevenson of LaSalle Co. Stricken

(Telegraph Special Service.)

Mendota, Nov. 19—Adam H. Stevenson, former highway commissioner of Ophir township, LaSalle county, dropped dead at about 11 o'clock this morning on the Francis Rex farm, five miles southwest of Mendota. Funeral arrangements had not been completed early this afternoon. Mr. Stevenson, well known throughout the county, is survived by two sons, Ray and Bert, and a daughter, Mrs. Della Miller.

KILLED BY POLICEMAN

Philadelphia, Nov. 19—(AP)—William Rocks, 17-year-old high school football star, died today of wounds from a bullet fired by a policeman who said an automobile in which the boy was riding failed to stop at his command.

Policeman Richard Crane, held in the custody of superiors, said Rocks and three companions were riding in a car similar in appearance to one being used by bandits for whom he was looking.

Slacks, or Anything Else Within Reason Permissible for Wear in Courtroom

Los Angeles, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Fashion note for courtroom wear:

Slacks (or anything else, within reason, which milady desires) are permissible.

Such was the dictate today, not of Hollywood stylists, but of two Superior Court judges, Edward T. Bishop and B. Rey Schauer.

They handed down the decision on a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Helen Hulick, teacher at a private kindergarten, who on three occasions wore slacks into the courtroom of Municipal Judge A. S. Guerin, thereby incurring his displeasure and a five-day jail sentence for contempt.

The jurists commented:

"The commitment appears to be based solely on the petitioner's failure to obey the order to change her attire . . . which, so far as the record before us discloses, did not in itself interfere with orderly courtroom procedure but involved merely a question of taste, a matter not within the court's control.

The teacher appeared as a witness against two negroes accused of stealing her purse.

Sixth Dividend

The trustees of the City National Bank of Dixon, Louis Pitcher, Dement Schuler and Leonard G. Rorer, in charge of the liquidation of the assets have announced that on Tuesday, November 22, another 5% dividend will be paid to the depositors.

All such depositors will be required to present their Participation Certificates at the bank in order to draw their dividends. The payment to be made to depositors next week, which will total $34,000 is the sixth since the liquidation of the bank was started and more will be realized later.

FIRE DAMAGE IN PEORIA SUBURB HALF A MILLION

Four Bartonville Manufacturing Companies Suffered Losses

Peoria, Ill., Nov. -9—(AP)—Fire gutted two buildings housing four manufacturing concerns in suburban Bartonville early today, causing damage which company officials estimated at $500,000.

Two hundred men and women employes of the four concerns are thrown out of work, at least temporarily. Only the walls of the two buildings were left standing.

Although a small night shift was at work, no one was injured.

All available fire apparatus of Peoria and Bartonville was called to fight the blaez.

The four companies manufacture wire and electrical equipment.

The companies and individual losses their officials estimated were:

W. A. Laidlaw Wire Company, $200,000, housed in one building.

Sommer Products Company, $150,000.

Mabey Electric & Manufacturing Company, $50,000.

S. & W. Keystone Company, $100,000.

Equipment Lost.

The latter three concerns were in the second building adjacent to the Laidlaw building.

Valuable equipment, including four pieces of machinery worth $25,000 each, accounted for much of the loss.

The fire started in a washroom at the Laidlaw Company. Firemen said the cause was unknown. Night Watchman Warren Wolgamot of Bartonville discovered the blaze and summoned night shift workers but they were unable to prevent its rapid spread.

Henry Enz, 60, a Laidlaw Company machinist, was sleeping in a third floor room. Fellow workers tossed rocks through the window to awaken him. He escaped unhurt.

Firemen said the distance from water supply and lack of sufficient pressure handicapped them.

Body of Frail Boy is Found Miles From Home

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 19—(AP)—The body of five-year-old Aerry Hays of Bisbee was found today three miles above his parents' hunting camp, from which he wandered away Nov. 10.

The child apparently died of exposure within two days after he became lost.

The body was found by two forest service workers, who were members of an army of nearly 1,000 searchers who had tramped for eight days through rugged Rucker canyon, 50 miles north of here in the Chiricahua mountains.

Members of the searching party expressed amazement that the frail child could climb the steep hillside for three miles before collapsing.

FACTORY ACCIDENTS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19—(AP)—State labor director, Martin P. Durkin reported today there were 210 factory accidents in Illinois in October. This figure compared with the low of 157 in July and a high of 507 in March. The report for October listed 57 accidents downstate and 153 in Cook county.

SPLINTER CAUSES DEATH

St. Louis—(AP)—Willis Etter, 7, of Hardin, Ill., died in a St. Louis hospital yesterday from an injury caused by a splinter driven into his cheek while playing 10 days ago. Hospital attendants said tetanus developed from the infection.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Philadelphia, Nov. 19—(AP)—A gang of neighborhood kids came upon four hoodlums holding up a grocery store.

Thrilled, the youngsters set up a shout of glee.

"Bang! Bang!" they cried, "Holdup! Bang; Bang!"

The startled bandits left the storekeeper—equally surprised—and his money behind as they sped out the door.

No Corner Stone

At the request of several citizens who were curious to record the contents of a corner stone, the contractor who is engaged in razing the old E. C. Smith school on Seventh street, this morning uncovered what was presumed to be a corner stone. The operation took place before quite a gallery of interested spectators, but the stone was found to be just another of the many heavy native stones which were used in the construction and as far as is known, no corner stone was provided for in the building.

INJURED GIRL, DESERTED HERE, TAKEN HOME LAST EVE

Miss Mae De Matteo, 18, 2203 Mobile street, Chicago, was able to be returned to her home last evening when relatives arrived from the city with transportation. The young woman was injured in an automobile crash on U. S. route 52 about four miles north of Amboy at a late hour last Tuesday night when the car operated by her male escort, whose name is unknown, left the paving, hurdled a ditch and crashed into a fence.

Miss De Matteo suffered a sprained ankle and other minor bruises and was brought to a Dixon hotel where a physician attended her. The damaged car was also hauled to a local garage, where her male companion was reported by police, to have passed a worthless check, explaining to the attendant that he desired to use the money to pay the physician and the hotel bill. The companion has not been seen in Dixon since and the girl was left in the hotel until Chief Van Bibber succeeded in locating relatives in Chicago, who were requested to come to Dixon and return her to her home.

American Motorist is Handed Bouquet Today

Cleveland, Nov. 19—(AP)—America's motorists received a bouquet today from the American Automobile Association for their part in reducing the nation's traffic fatalities.

In his report to the 36th annual A. A. convention, Major Roy F. Britton of St. Louis, chairman of the association's traffic safety commission, said:

"While the drop of 20 per cent in traffic fatalities this year, compared with the number a year ago, is attributable to many advances, it is apparent that motorists themselves did much to bring about improvement.

"Individual care has always been and always will be the basis of traffic safety".

Captain C. J. Scavarda of the Michigan state police endorsed flexible speed laws that will "let the motorist decide for himself how fast he ought to drive."

British Royalty Will Be White House Guests

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—The King and Queen of Great Britain will be house guests at the White House when they visit America next year.

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt told her press conference she and the President would entertain their royal visitors and such people in their party as they deemed necessary to have with them, but that other arrangements would be made for some members of the royal entourage.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she understood there would be 40 in the party, and that it would be impossible to have 40 people staying in the White House.

King George and Queen Elizabeth will be the first reigning monarchs to be entertained overnight at the White House.

HUNTING ACCIDENT

Carlinville, Ill.—(AP)—Michael F. Seyfrit, 40, state's attorney of Macoupin county, faced the possible loss of his right eye today as the result of a gun accident. He was wounded in the face yesterday when a shotgun in the hands of T. J. Murray, a farmer living near Carlinville, accidentally discharged.

COLUMNIST FOUND DEAD

Washington, Nov. 19 —(AP)—Rodney Dutcher, Washington columnist, was found dead at his desk today, a victim of a heart attack.

Dutcher, 37, was manager of the Washington bureau of the Newspaper Enterprise Association, a Scripps-Howard news, feature and picture syndicate.

SIX FLYERS DIE IN WRECKAGE OF AN ARMY BOMBER

Seventh Severely Hurt, Another Feared Missing in Dixie Crash

LaGrange, Ga., Nov. 19—(AP)—The storm-bred crash of a twin-engined army bombing plane in an isolated woodland last night killed six army fliers and severely injured another.

An eighth man believed aboard the big (Douglas) air destroyer when it went down in a driving rain was unaccounted for and searchers feared his body was still in the smouldering wreckage.

The heavy ship was on a routine flight from Mitchel Field, New York, to Maxwell Field at Montgomery, Ala., when it was caught late last night in one of many downpours that swept across the south.

A Negro heard the crash and saw the flames rising from a timber thicket seven miles northeast of here about 10 o'clock last night.

Rescuers Fight Mud.

He came here for help but it was hours before rescuers could force along a mud-bogged dirt road and through a two-mile country lane to the crash scene where the craft had plowed a 150-yard path through pine trees.

Four bodies soon were found within a few yards of the smoking debris, a fifth was discovered in the wreckage later and the twisted metal still resisted efforts to locate another body late this morning.

Second Lieut. John Madre and Private Joseph J. Nanartowich were brought into a hospital here and Nanartowich died a few hours later. Madre was badly hurt.

Immediate identification of the bodies found at the plane was impossible because they were burned badly. Army officers hurried here from Maxwell Field to investigate the tragedy, one of the worst in military aviation history.

Those Listed Aboard.

Air Corps officers here announced those aboard the plane when it left Mitchell Field were:

Crew:

Second Lieutenant R. Kirkland Black, Air Corps; Second Lieutenant Roff McKechnie, Air Reserve; Second Lieut. Allan M. Howery, Air Reserve; Second Lieut. John D. Madre, Air Reserve; Staff Sergeant Harry T. Jones, 99th bombardment squadron; Private Joseph J. Nanartowich, 99th bombardment squadron.

Passengers to Maxwell Field, en route to home stations:

First Lieutenant James W. Stewart, Medical Corps and Corporal Galloway, 3rd weather squadron, Dallas, Texas., initials unavailable.

HOMICIDAL MANIAC SOUGHT BY WASHINGTON OFFICERS

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—Police, convinced their quarry was a homicidal maniac, searched suburban northwest Washington and nearby Maryland today for clues to the identity of a gunman blamed for the slaying of two persons and the wounding of two others. Five suspects were held.

All the attacks have occurred within a week. Peter F. Murray, 60, a deputy WPA foreman here, was killed and his companion, Mrs. Edna L. Brown, 40, was wounded Thursday night. Mrs. Brown said they were motoring to Silver Spring, Md., when a man jumped onto the running board of the car and demanded money. He opened fire, she said, after Murray surrendered his wallet containing $5.

Ballistics experts said the shots were fired from the same weapon used by a man who wounded John G. Clements, 23, a week ago, and killed Edward Roper, 31, Negro, a day later. In each of these instances, the victim was in an automobile with a woman companion.

Except in the case of Murray and Mrs. Brown, police said the gunman made no effort to rob.

Georgian Given Year for Chasing Negroes

Marietta, Ga., Nov. 19—One of 19 men indicted in connection with racial disorders at Smyrna a month ago was sentenced today to a year in prison for "chasing Negroes and leading others in the chase."

Superior Judge J. H. Hawkins imposed the sentence upon Buck Miller, about 23, who pleaded guilty. The others indicted forfeited bonds of $1,000 each by failure to appear in court yesterday. Judge Hawkins said reviews might be asked in the latter cases however at the January term of court.

The demonstrations against Negroes followed the slaying of a farmer and his daughter by a Negro, now under death sentence in the case.

Passenger-Laden Plane Guided Into Fog-Shrouded London Airport by Berlin Radio

Chicago, Nov. 19.—(AP)—D. W. (Tommy) Tomlinson, former navy ace, told the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences last night that Germany had demonstrated its air might to England during the recent war crisis by guiding a plane into a fog-shrouded London airport by radio from Berlin.

Tomlinson, head of Transcontinental & Western Air's experimental flight section, returned to the United States a few days ago after a tour of Germany military airplane factories.

The radio-guided plane was a transport ship carrying passengers to England. Though it was coming into Croydon airport during a heavy fog, he said, it did not ask for position bearings.

"After a while the German plane reported to Croydon by radio that it was over the Victoria railroad station, London, and would land at Croydon so many minutes later," Tomlinson said. "After the plane had landed the amazed Croydon officials asked the pilot how he knew he was over the Victoria station. The pilot replied 'Berlin told me.'"

Tomlinson said that the organization of military aircraft factories in Germany was superior to that in the United States.

TILE

Decorative and Practical

For centuries the architects and builders of the world have been using clay tile for floors, walls and decorative effects. We know that the Chinese, Phoenicians and Egyptians, the Greeks and Romans, all used tile in varying degrees of perfection hundreds of years ago.

At first tiles were made by hand, being moulded from natural clay or feldspars and flints. Today manufacturers use the same materials but the raw products undergo a variety of refining and mixing processes before they are formed into tiles.

Tile in bathrooms is accepted today as one of the most desirable finishes for the walls and floors, where constant use of steaming water and the resultant moisture makes necessary a wall and floor surface which will not disintegrate or discolor from dampness.

A somewhat less common use for tile is in the kitchen, not only around the sink but as a wall and floor finish. Tile washes easily and will never be affected by odors, steam, dirt, dust or discoloring agents.

From the decorative point of view, tiles may well be introduced at other points. As a facing around the opening of a fireplace in a pine paneled room, tile is very effective. One or two tiles, in width, should be used with a tile hearth. Finish by running a wide pine moulding over the joint between the tile and the pine.

CURTAIN LINING

In making draperies of glazed chintz, prints or other nonsheer materials, it is always advisable to line them with sateen or other suitable goods, not only for the better hanging of the curtains but because this lining will diffuse the light and make a more pleasing effect. The lining will also save the material from sunrot.

Very often, sluggishness of an automobile motor can be traced to worn or dirty distributor points.

BRICK AND BLOCKS COMBINED

The use of different materials in the outside walls of a house many times results in an interesting effect. In this house concrete blocks and brick have been well used to get an interesting texture and color combination.

Yesterday: Adam dashes out to see if Barney is safe. While he is gone a strange woman appears on the balcony

CHAPTER 14

The Girl from the Train

It seemed to me that she had been trying to attract my attention. But whether or not she was now aware of me I could not tell. Suddenly she staggered up one step and seemed to fall out of sight.

After the first icy shock of horror, when I was unable to scream, remembering the poor soul who had hanged herself, I clamped one hand over my mouth and sat there shivering violently, trying to get hold of myself and be sensible. However much she might appear to be an apparition, she had to be flesh and blood. I reminded myself that there were guest rooms off the balcony which, Adam had said, were seldom occupied. But seldom did not mean never.

I was positive she was not one of the guests at the hop. None of them had been dressed like that—all in floating white. I began to shiver again. But if she had been up there all evening, if she were the relative of some enlisted man and occupying one ofthe guest rooms, she might know something, might even have witnessed the shooting.

It would not do for me to summon anyone else; I must follow her alone. I must at least keep her presence secret until Adam could talk to her.

Before my good resolution could weaken I slipped my notes under the stair rug and climbed upward as fast as my shaky knees would permit.

She was lying partially on the stairway, as if she had fallen forward just before she reached the top—a flesh-and-blood woman in a white nightgown and robe. Her body was limp as an old rag thrown down, and when I could bring myself to touch it, to turn the face upward to the light, I saw that it was so flushed with blood as to be almost purple, and there were flecks of foam on the lips.

To my untutored eyes it looked like suffocation or poisoning.

And then, after the first wave of blackness had been fought off and I could see again, I recognized her. It was the girl from the train.

Somehow I got past her and onto the balcony, somehow I edged my way along to the opposite side of the central well without being seen by any of the huddling groups below. There was another stairway that I had noticed leading up from the powder room. I stood at the head of it and listened until I was sure there was no one below. And when I reached the foot of it I found I was still whispering to myself, "I won't scream, I won't scream!"

There was an outside door that corresponded to the one in the reading room—the one Elizabeth had used to slip out unseen. I hurried around the building in the darkness until I could look in through the reading-room window. Tubby Shaw and Mrs. Orpington were still glowering at each other. Adam had not returned.

Where would I find him? He had gone for Barney—to the Officers' club where the bachelors had rooms. I started in pursuit and met him returning, his long legs striding purposefuly toward the row of parked cars.

Key to the Murder

I reached him, clung to him and poured out my story.

He put his hand over mine where it rested on his arm and the touch was warm and comforting. It was demoralizing to shake so.

"Good girl," he said quietly. "The fewer people know about this, the better. Maybe—someone—will give it away. I'll go up and look over the situation. You take my car—or Charlie's—and go for Doc Moore. Barney is at the hospital too; the orderly at the club couldn't keep him in bed. Tell him I want to see him."

I took Charlie's car again; he wouldn't be needing it for a while. And as I drove a thousand questions raced through my mind, seeking answers I could not produce.

Most urgent of these—the identity of the strange girl—tantalized me because I had been so near to solving it on the train. I had fancied that I had seen her before and had dismissed it as a chance resemblance. But had the resemblance been chance? Was it a family one—and to someone on this post?

I found that I did not believe she was the wife or sister of an enlisted man. For one thing, her clothes were too expensive. For another, she had undoubtedly identified Charlie's ring. And what had Adam said?

"Catch any soldier on this post putting his women-folk in this building for the night!"

The line of reasoning was not strong, but it intensified my growing feeling that to solve the identity of that girl would be to find a key to the murder of Anne Carewe.

As often happens when you try to watch your subconscious at work, mine retired into a subcellar and put out the light. Even the remembered image of the girl as she sat across the aisle from me on the train faded from my mind and left me staring at that contorted magenta mask which bore no resemblance to anything living.

Horror was riding with me. I spun the little car crazily around a corner and saw welcome lights ahead.

The hospital at Fort Havens is at the same end of the post as the commanding officer's quarters, but beyond and well away from the other buildings and the main road. I had been there that afternoon, but not inside the big brick building.

I ran up the short flight of steps and through the heavy double doors, skidded to a stop on the highly waxed linoleum floor and looked about me. The odor of formaldehyde and a hushed and breathless quiet enveloped everythign.

A room to the right was labeled: DISPENSARY. To my left a door was open on a small office. An orderly in a stiff white jacket rose from behind a desk and motioned me down a long cross corridor to where a doorway showed golden against the dimmer hall.

"Your friends are in there, waiting for the captain. He'll come as soon as he's free."

"Will you tell him it's urgent, please? Major Drew sent me."

Haunted Eyes

He hurried away and I tip-toed down the endless polished corridor, listening to my footsteps echo and re-echo against the cold white walls and ceiling.

The surgeon's office was sparsely furnished; a big desk; a bookcase full of heavy medical books; a few mahogany armchairs. Against that austere background nothing could have been more unseemly than our forgotten finery.

I looked at Elizabeth's white face above her pink organdy; at Barney's great figure hunched over the desk, face buried in his hands like a stricken jester, the pierced crimson heart on his back shocking reminder of Anne's down-flung form; and realized suddenly that I, too, was still in fancy dress.

Then I saw Annie, in decent black, a Queen Mary hat set rigidly level on her small head, twisting her handkerchief and staring from a corner—the spirit of tragedy brooding over a vanished feast.

Elizabeth stopped turning the leaves of a medical journel and glanced up with haunted eyes. Barney dropped his hands from a paper-white face against which his eyes were like the openings to gray, vacant corridors and rose, swaying a little.

"Has—has Adam found out anything?" he asked with desperate urgency.

I said, "I don't know," and avoided their eyes, which seemed to accuse me of withholding hope. "He wants to see you—he's still at the Service Club."

I found a chair quickly and sat down because he was obviously holding himself up by a great effort.

"I'll go back—as soon as I've seen Doc," hesaid. "I've got things to do . . . There'll be no sleep for me," he added more strongly, "until we find—" He clenched his big hands and swallowed painfully.

Elizabeth's eyes were fixed on the open doorway. I listened and heard them, too—the quick, quiet footsteps descending the stairs, traversing the long corridor.

Not over thirty now, in ten years time Captain Moore would be a little stooped, I thought irrelevantly as he stood in the doorway enveloped in the white surgical gown, his oversize head bent a little forward with the air of one peering over his glasses and listening for something only faintly audible. His mouth was controlled, his hands lean and sensitive—a surgeon's hands.

"You wanted me?" he asked of the room at large.

Elizabeth had risen and taken a step forward. She seemed braced for a blow.

"We thought—it might not be too late," she said painfully." Father would want nothing left undone . . . "

In Barney's eyes there was a naked plea. So they were hoping—still.

Kansas City Patrol Cars Collide; Policeman Dies

Kansas City, Nov. 18—(AP) — Two police patrol cars, their sirens sounding so loudly the drivers apparently could not hear each other, collided at a street intersection today, killing Patrolman Henry Shipe, 35. The cars were speeding to give assistance to other officers engaged in a shooting scrape with two Negroes.

Shipe's death was the first motor car fatality here in November, during which police have been engaged in an intensive campaign to reduce traffic accidents.

"Treaty Maker" Dead

Zagreb, Yugoslavia, Nov. 14—(AP)—Anton Trumbitch, former Yugoslavia foreign minister who was known as "the treaty maker," died today. He was 76 years old.

Trumbitch, as Yugoslav delegate to the Versailles peace conference, played an important role in the reshaping of central Europe after the World War.

Yom Kippur, or day of atonement, is the most sacred Hebrew holy day. It occurs at the end of September or the beginning of October.

RECESSED BUNK

Extra sleeping arrangements are always needed in the smaller houses. Here is an inexpensive method that provides room for a full sized day bed. The wall is recessed and paneled with pine planks. The lower part of the day bed is also finished with planks that are removable . . . When the plank panel is removed the day bed may be opened to full width.

COAL MEN GIVEN LITTLE CHEER IN NEW TRADE PACTS

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—Coal men found no substantial relief from tariff barriers today in the reciprocal trade agreement with Canada. One major bituminous spokesman expressed bitter disappointment.

The pact, effective Jan. 1, continued the Canadian duty of 75 cents a ton on bituminous from the United States, 50 cents on anthracite, and $1 on coke. The agreement guaranteed, however, against increases in these duties and the state department said this had the effect of removing Canada's 3 per cent excise tax which had added about 8 cents a ton to bituminous and about 20 cents to anthracite.

Speaking for bituminous producers, John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, said the excise tax removal was "trifling." The failure to obtain more substantial concessions, he said, was a "grievous blow."

The result of the agreement apparently was to leave coal men's hopes of increased sales in Canada dependent almost entirely on the possibility of an improved competitive condition with Great Britain in the Dominion market.

A hint that no substantial duty reductions would be granted was published two months ago in the Colliery Guardian, a London coal trade journal.

The journal said then it saw a greater market for United States anthracite in Canada as the outgrowth of the European tension and changing economic conditions in Europe.

"Information reaching the Dominion fuel board," said the journal, "is that offerings of Welsh and Scotch goal are being reduced, and Canadian importers are returning increasingly to the United States for supplies." The journal attributed this to increased labor cost in Britain and the development of European markets for British coal.

Latest Statistics Given on Head Cold Prevalence

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19—(AP)—That cold in the head is most likely to catch up with you before the end of this month.

At least, that's what is indicated by statistics of the state health department, based upon study of head cold prevalence during the past several years. Dr. A. C. Baxter, acting health director, said:

"If the course of health conditions runs true to form, this outbreak will take place the first of December and run from that date until late spring.

"The change to indoor life, the shortage of direct sunlight, the heavier diets and the crowding together of people indoors without adequate ventilation are all factors which tend to bring about the prevalence of colds."

YOUTH STAYS ON FARM

Portland, Ore., Nov. 18—(AP)—There is no longer a universal desire among farm youth to desert the country for the city, delegates to the National Grange convention agreed today.

The urge to leave the farm largely disappeared observed Mrs. Louis Taber, wife of the National Grange Master, with the advent of the automobile, the radio and other comforts of the machine age.

Snakes do not charm birds. The instinctive fear that small birds and animals have for a snake paralyzes their muscles and prevents their escape.

Early American Room

There is the charm of simplicity about our early American homes which has an appeal today that seems to be growing consistently.

The Early American style of interior decoration is well adapted to small and medium-sized houses and is particularly prized by those who have in their possession various treasured heirlooms dating back to pre-Revolutionary days; many also who like this quaint and comfortable furniture are purchasing very lovely reproductions of the old-time pieces. Included in this type of furniture are Brewster and Carver chairs, slat back and banister chairs, hoop-back and comb-back Windsors, court cupboards, press and corner cupboards, highboys and lowboys, gate-leg and butterfly tables and four post beds. The comfortable wing chair is also typical of the er

Hooked and rag rugs of different types are the typical floor coverings. Floors of wide oak boards, or of stone or tile, are appropriate. Walls may have oak or pine wainscoting or paneling, or the fireplace wall may be paneled and the remaining three sides of the room plastered or papered.

CHILDREN'S HANDRAIL

To accommodate the little folks in the household, it is a very nice thing to have a small handrail run up the staircase at a lower level from the main rail, in order that the little hands may reach the safety device.

AID SOCIETY DINNER

About thirty ladies of the Methodist church motored to Ashton Thursday where they enjoyed the day with their pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Dreger. A lovely scramble dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour. The afternoon was spent in social visiting and enjoying the fine program that had been prepared by the pastor and wife.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING

The regular meeting of the young people of the Presbyterian church was held at the church on Wednesday evening. About twenty-five were present. The meeting was presided over by the president, John Senger. A missionary from Korea was present and gave a splendid talk which was much enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Charles Baker and Vivan Miller. The next meeting will be the 30th of November. Junior Hedwig and Miss Marie Black will be the hostesses.

COMPLETELY SURPRISED

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shoemaker were completely surprised Wednesday evening when a group of friends gathered at their home for an evening of 500. Roy Shoemaker, who is the faithful janitor at the school house had the misfortune to hurt his knee very badly Sunday afternoon and has been forced to remain at home. He gets around by the use of crutches. The group who surprised them was made up of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cadone and daughter Jackie, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Patterson, Mrs. Mary Gilbert and Mrs. Lucy Ives. At 500 Mr. Patterson won first prize.

20TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A group of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Withey Sunday to help them celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary. It was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Withey. The friends brought with them well filled baskets and a lovely dinner was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kenney and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Miller and son Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Greenfield, Jr., and family, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Morris and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robinson and family. Mr. and Mrs. Withey are well known in this community and have a large circle of friends who will wish for them many more happy wedding anniversaries.

WILL PROBATED

The will of John W. Buck whose death occurred October 20th of this year, was filed for probate in county court Wednesday morning, the inventory listing real estate valued at $3,500 and personal property of the value of $2,500. Three sons, Oliver D., Ira L., and Earl R. Buck, all residing in this community are named to execute the provisions of the will which provides a bequest amounting to $200 to Anna Richwine.

Conductress—Mrs. Ruth Duncan.

Associate conductress — Mrs. Grace Lott.

Mrs. Gladys Jacobs is the retiring worthy matron who has served the chapter faithfully for two terms.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

The school this year is sponsoring a series of free assembly programs for both grade and high school students. The first one was Monday. The name of it was "Wings Over America." It was about aviation and meteorology and was illustrated with projected pictures. The program was given by Watler Van Histma. It was very good and helpful to all the pupils.

FELLOWSHIP MEETING

About fifty members and friends of the Methodist church gathered in the church basement Tuesday evening for a fellowship supper and program. Mrs. Ralph Dreger had charge of the Junior League department. Songs were sung and short talks were given by various ones present. A radio play with Reverend Dreger as the announcer was very interesting. After the program the gathering went to the west room of the basement which has recently been re-decorated and re-finished for a place for the young people to hold their meetings. The room was dedicated for that purpose in a few well chosen words by the pastor, Rev. Ralph Dreger. All who were present report the evening as one of profit as well as pleasure. Plans are being made to have a fellowship once a month during the winter months, thus getting better acquainted with one another in a social way. Both young and old attend these suppers and take part in the program.

VOLLEY BALL LEAGUE STARTS MONDAY

Some sixty or seventy athletic-minded adults reported to the Kersten gym last Monday night for the organization meeting of the winter volley ball league.

After a practice round of games a business meeting was held in which the group decided to organize under the name of the Franklin Grove Athletic association. Officers were elected as follows: Leslie Henry, president, and Clark Phillips, secretary.

Monday, Nov. 21st. Games

We encourage all members to attend. An invitation is extended to our friends.

FRANKLIN GROVE

Sunday, November 20th closes the great International Fellowship Week through which we are passing. In the Sunday school, teachers will take pupils through the "World Family Album."

A roll call of church members will be taken in the morning worship service. At least one representative from each family should be present. Mrs. James Lincoln will act as roll call secretary.

In the evening at 7:00 o'clock John Oxenham's "Chaos—and the Way Out" will be presented by Mrs. John Myers, Miss Dorothy Durkes, Marion Norris, Trimble Yocum, Frances Kelley, Margaret Warrenfeltz and the choir, directed by Kenneth Wasson.

Tuesday the Junior Leageu will hold its meeting at the church in the newl ydecorated Fellowship room, right after school.

Thursday, the union Thanksgiving service will be in the Methodist church with Rev. Cover preaching.

BASKETBALL STANDINGS

The local high school team is still in the thick of the fight for its share for the three trophies possible in this year's conference play. Franklin and Ashton at present are leading the Green River Valley conference with one win and no defeats. In the Route 72 conference of which we are also a member the local lads are leading in the lightweight standings and have dropped but one game in the heavyweight class. Both heavyweight and lightweight teams in the Route 72 conference maintain standings and play for separate trophies.

The next important home game will be on Wednesday, Nov. 23, the local lads being hosts to Byron in a Route 72 conference game.

INDIANS ASK AID

Landusky, Mont. —(AP)—Remnana members of the Cree and Chippewa Indian tribes, contending other Indians "resent" them because they were on the side of the white in Indian wars, have asked the government for aid.

J. H. Dusome of Zurich, Mont., has been elected spokesman for 34 of the Indians and he is asking that the government give each family 40 acres of irrigable land and aid in establishing homes.

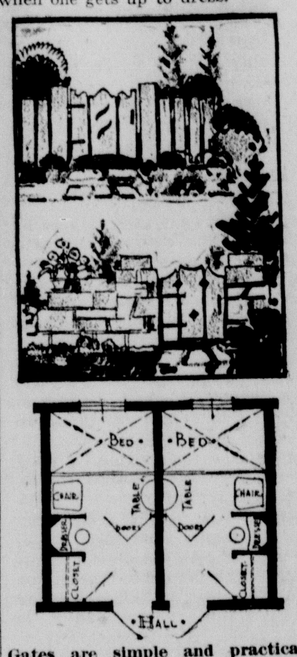

"In every Indian campaign we were on the side of the whites and for this reason there has been a noticeable resentment against us among the other Indians, even to the present generation," said Dusome.

TWO ROOMS FROM ONE

Borrowed from the construction ideas used in a cabin cruiser, an architect here presents a plan for re-constructing one large room into two smaller rooms providing the extra sleeping space which may be needed.

Each of the smaller rooms has a closet, a built-in dresser, room for a chair and a small bedside table.

Note that there are doors between the actual bedspace and the rest of the room which permit that portion to be closed at night, leaving the dressing room section warm in the morning when one gets up to dress.

Gates are simple and practical methods of improving the home and grounds. The gates illustrated are well adapted to the English type of house.

COURT GIVES WIFE PREFERENCE IN HER HUSBAND'S SUPPORT

Geneva, Ill., Nov. 19—(AP) — Martin LaDew, a Circuit court judged has decided, was not obligated to give part of his $75 monthly income to support his mother and sister in preference to his wife.

Judge Olney C. Allen of Aurora dismissed a petition by Martin's mother, Mrs. Helen LaDew of Aurora, asking that she be declared a pauper and that her son be required to contribute to her support.

Milton, who is 21, had been giving his mother $55 a month to support her and his sister, Lois, 24. Several days before he was married November 5 to Barbara Jean Lull of Aurora, Mrs. LaDew filed the petition.

Judge Allen, in his ruling, said it was not proved that the senior Mrs. LaDew and her daughter were unable to support themselves. In her petition, Mrs. LaDew said she was suffering from a nervous disease and had lost sight of one eye. She was divorced in 1929.

Judge Allen pointed out in his decision that the Illinois law "places the primary duty of supporting poor persons upon those on whom, because of blood relationship, there is imposed a natural and moral duty to maintain them. It is a good law and should be enforced wherever possible."

But in the LaDew case, Judge Allen said, he was convinced the mother and daughter could take care of themselves.

The young bank teller and his bride of two weeks have been living with her parents in Aurora.

Forest fires in unprotected areas of the U. S. averaged 104,816 per year from 1933-37, and did an estimated annual damage of $33,613,000.

FRENCH SPLIT OVER GOVERNMENT'S NEW ECONOMIC PROGRAM

Paris, Nov. 18—(AP)—A split developed today among Premier Daladier's own supporters in the Chamber of Deputies over the drastic new government economic program which brought a warning from former Premier Leon Blum against attempting to set up a dictatorship in France.

Despite the premier's personal appeal for an unanimous vote of approval, nine of the 112 deputies of the middle-of-the-road Radical-Socialist party at a meeting called by the premier voted against him, and 31 others abstained from voting.

Unanimous approval was voted, however, for France's "lack of racial prejudice" and for opposition to cession of any French colony to Germany.

The split over the "three-year plan" for rebuilding France's finances was believed to have added a new item to mounting difficulties Daladier's government faces in its new decree laws although a large majority voted confidence in the program and appealed to all French people to support it in a spirit of "freely consented disciline."

Deputies called the resolution on racial prejudice an indirect slap at Germany through comparison.

"France, a country exempt from racial prejudice," it said in part, "has considerably bettered the material, intellectual tnd moral situation of the people which it has taken in charge."

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING?

Memphis, Tenn. —(AP)—Digging a ditch in which to lay a pipeline recently Charles W. Worthman struck a vein of lignite —an intermediate form of coal, combustible and heat-giving.

Wortham and his son followed the vein, dug deeper only to discover they had undermined the Wortham home. It's a problem of cost now; whether to reinforce the mine and have the coal, or fill it up and forget about the whole thing.

Consult a good architect before you build.

Door to Bookcase

If you have an old-fashioned wide door between two rooms in your house that you would like to close off yet not give the appearance of a makeshift job, here is a method recently observed in an old home.

A modern bookcase is made out of the wide opening.

Begin by designing a set of bookshelves that will fit in between the jambs of the doors and similar to the one sketched. Let the bottom part be a covered section with flush panel doors. These cupboards make ideal storage space for magazines, games, etc.

Parquetry Floors

There seems to be a revival of the fine parquetry floors which graced the ancient French chateaux. Such material is now available to even modest homes, at a cost but little higher than the more usual strip flooring.

It will remain permanently firm and level; it will not squeak or show cracks; it will not shrink or swell; it is sound-deadening and has a feel unique in a wood floor.

Besides, it makes a very beautiful and desirable appearance out of all proportion to the cost of its installation.

So esteemed was cocoa at one time that in many parts of Mexico the seeds of the cacao tree were used as money and the beverages could be afforded only by royalty.

GARAGES

One way of making the garage an integral part of the house is to build an open porch above it, with solid balustrade pierced by occasional grilles, and with a gabled roof above it to harmonize and blend in with the other gables of the house.

The garage doors should be finely executed with decorative door hardware typical of the period to which the house belongs.

JACOBEAN STYLE LIVING ROOM

A Jacobean living room recently exhibited has green, yellow and brown as the three dominant colors. The walls are painted a soft golden yellow; the woodwork is a warm brown. English printed linens in green, accented by Chinese red, repeat the darker green shades of the large rug.

The Great Lakes have a barely perceptible tide, which is called a seiche, and is partly due to atmospheric conditions.

TRADE WARS OF DICTATORS AFFECT ALL WORKINGMEN

One of the things that makes it hard for Americans to figure out the right kind of foreign policy these days is the fact that they have always been great believers in the old virtue of minding their own business.

A cardinal point in the American creed is the belief that any people has a right to the kind of government it chooses, even if that government happens to be atrociously bad. So if the Germans, the Russians, the Italians or any other people feel like saddling themselves with governments which look like holdovers from the era of Genghis Khan, we have never felt called upon to do anything about it.

Up to now, that worked fine. For while the world had some fairly brutal and reactionary dictatorships in the old days, they mostly minded their own business too. They did try to grab up such loose bits of Asia and Africa as weren't nailed down, to be sure, but since we had no vital interests in those spots we could afford to be quite unconcerned.

But the picture now is different. The dictatorships are not merely on their muscle; they seem to be doing their very best to create the kind of world in which only dictatorships can survive.

First of all, they arm to the teeth—and brandish their arms about as recklessly as so many drunken two-gun men in a frontier saloon. They regard neither treaties nor international law; they openly say they are going to take what they want and that brute force is the only power they respect.

Yet that is only a starter. They meddle in the internal affairs of their neighbors—meddle constantly, remorselessly and dangerously. They organize, finance and direct revolutionary movements inside of countries with which they are at peace. They try to control the activities of descendants of their own emigrants, no matter how far those people may be removed from any actual tie with the homeland. In every conceivable way they seek to implant their own ideas and their own standards on foreign soil.

On top of all this, they have introduced a new kind of commercial war to the world. Driving down their own living standards, they defy competition by nations which refuse to reduce their own living standards. They turn international trade into a struggle which creates poverty instead of wealth. They make their internal policies of low wages, long hours and small profits matters which directly affect workers and producers on the other side of the world.

Today's dictatorships are not in the least like the dictatorships of the past. In the old days we could ignore dictatorships, figuring that the world was large enough to contain repression and freedom side by side. Today it is extremely hard to take that attitude—and it is getting harder every day.

It may be that minding our own business will require us to take a very alert and intelligent interest in the kind of government our neighbors treat themselves to. If they insist on creating the kind of world in which a free society could not survive, they can hardly be surprised if we react accordingly.

MEXICO, A PROBLEM CHILD

Secretary of State Cordell Hull has a serious decision to make with regard to the sovietization of Mexico.

Our Monroe doctrine was predicated upon the possibility that some European government might attempt to conquer and exploit some free South or Central American country, thus bringing all the old world's entangling alliances to enmesh us at our own doors. At that time, probably, little was thought of the probability that some old world political doctrine such as Marxism might move into the neighboring country of Mexico.

However, there is some precedent to consider. During our civil war Maximilian was exported by France to Mexico to set up a monarchy. With some show of reason France might have pleaded that Maximilian's regime was independent of France, and hence not an extension of France itself into this hemisphere. But the United States did not wait to argue the case. The Monroe doctrine was restated with the result that French support of the Emperor Maximilian was withdrawn. Suddenly, throughout Europe, Maxie had no support. Even the Vatican turned cold. Maxie was shot by revolutionaries.

The present communist regime set up by President Cardenas in Mexico, likewise, could be considered as independent of Russia, yet it is an extension of the Russian soviet to this hemisphere. In fact, Leon Trotzky praises Cardenas as even more advanced than Stalin. Leon Trotzky is in Mexico now, and has been an associate of Stalin in the past, and is in position to know.

William Allen White says Cardenas dreams of a United Soviet States of South America. White quotes Cardenas as saying that he is actually putting into effect in Mexico the things that Franklin D. Roosevelt is trying to bring about in the United States.

Secretary Hull has more to think about than mere payment to our nationals for their properties seized in Mexico. While we may have no legalized interest in what form of government Mexico takes, it still is a matter of concern if we are going to have a hotbed of communist agitators on the border.

ANOTHER DIRIGIBLE EXPERIMENT

The dirigible idea in this country has somewhat the same quality as the ships themselves. It refuses to stay down. The Shenandoah, the Macon and the Akron disasters, followed by the explosion of the huge dirigible recently, have failed to quench the interest in lighter-than-air travel.

President Roosevelt has authorized bids for construction of a small dirigible to be not more than 325 feet long and to carry not more than a million cubic feet of helium. Meanwhile the army has gone out of the balloon business. Even for observation purposes it has replaced the old-time observation balloons with autogyros.

The United States, England, France, Italy and Germany have had unfortunate experiences with dirigibles. Hundreds of highly trained men have gone to death as the ships exploded or were wrenched apart in storms. Army and navy men, with one or two notable exceptions, are convinced that the dirigible has little military value, probably not enough to pay for its cost. The dirigible is highly vulnerable to attack by military planes and anti-aircraft fire, is easily seen from the ground and lacks speed.

To many minds, the greatest possibility of the dirigible is in the commercial transportation field. The German government has carried on notable experiments with commercial dirigibles and the Graf Zeppelin, even though inflated with highly explosive hydrogen gas, has made scheduled trips with great regularity. The Hindenburg disaster put an end to the use of hydrogen. Helium is not available in Germany, and the German government at this time seems to be the only one anxious to carry on commercial experiments. The impossibility of buying helium gas in the United States has stopped that.

If the dirigible experiments are to be continued it would seem necessary for the United States government to do it. Few private interests are willing to risk the outlay, even if they could finance the ships.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note—The Brass Ring is good for one free ride on The Washington Merry-Go-Round, the enjoyment of which is up to the rider. This week it goes to Nathan Straus, head of the U. S. Housing Authority.)

Washington—The president, in one of his franker moods, once remarked: "What Washington needs is about fifteen good decapitations."

Since then, Mr. Roosevelt has been either too busy or too tender-hearted to wield the axe, so The Washington Merry-Go-Round, always anxious to be of service, has prepared a guillotine list for him.

At the top of the list, solely on the basis of his record, we nominate for decapitation Nathan Straus, Administrator of the United Housing Authority.

Mr. Straus is a very pleasant, well-meaning man, who has probably promised more and accomplished less than any of the numerous and varied political personalities Roosevelt has brought to Washington.

He started out by boasting that he could run the Housing Authority with only 100 employees. The 544 people from Ickes' old PWA Housing Division, he said, would be dismissed. But today the 544 employees inherited from Ickes have grown to 1100 in the Washington office alone, to say nothing of an additional staff in the field.

Next Nathan issued a fanfare regarding all the housing projects he was starting. Every day or so, his busy publicity office listed new cities for which funds had been allocated. But now, one year after assuming office, it turns out that all the Straus ballyhoo was merely over the earmarking of funds. It did not mean the actual building of housing projects.

Few Houses Started

Cold fact is that the list of actual contracts signed with municipalities has been pitifully small, while that of projects actually begun has been even smaller. With the exception of the apartments started by New York's fiery "Little Flower" LaGuardia, Straus has not even dug a hole in the ground, probably will not be able to do so until early 1939.

All this after a year and three months of work!

Furthermore, it now turns out that many of the projects approved by Straus were those on which the old Housing Division had done all the preliminary work. Once when Straus came forward with one of his Hollywood announcements of ten projects allotted for, close examination showed that with the exception of one tiny enterprise in Austin, Texas, he had merely dusted off the old projects and taken the credit for them.

One of Straus' handicaps is that he suffers from the "little man" complex. He is pompous and egotistical, indulges in a boyish desire to do everything himself. Thus he refused to take pointers from the hard-earned experience of the PWA housing officials. Relegating them to the side-lines, he imported dreamy-eyed officials from Greenwich Village who are now learning the PWA housing lesson all over again.

Complete Vacuum

As an executive and administrator, Straus is a total vacuum. Not only does he fail to delegate responsibiliy, but he likes to keep his associates in their holes. A little, bird-like man, he poses as the big, rough administrator. It fools nobody, for he is erratic, nervous and jittery.

Nathan is the type who, if he cannot bask in the Klieg lights, he will not play ball. When the Press Club gave a luncheon for Ambassador Joe Kennedy, Straus came bustling up to the speaker's table looking for his place card. Informed that he had no seat at the speaker's table, he appropriated a place there anyway. One or two cabinet members, with heads of other agencies, sat with the hoi polloi. John L. Lewis stood against the wall.

When things first began to go wrong in the Housing Authority, Jim Farley sent Straus his own executive assistant, J. Austin Latimer, while Charley Michelson sent him Farmer Murphy, his ace press assistant.

But Straus allowed his female secretary, who reminds Washington of General Johnson's famous "Robbie", to gang up on Latimer. Side-tracked, he took his hat and went back to Farley.

Farmer Murphy also discovered that Nathan thought he knew all there was to know about publicity. As Straus expressed it, he had been a newspaperman himself once, even had sat at the feet of that super-publicity man, Eddie Bernays.

So when a newspaper reported that Straus did not permit young women in his immediate office to use rouge, lipstick or fingernail polish, Nathan protested to the editor. The editor, instead of reprimanding the reporter, published a hilarious cartoon on the subject of Straus' unrouged secretaries.

Anxious to read all about himself, Straus ordered a large assortment of out-of-town newspapers airmailed to his office. The bills ran into several hundred dollars a month. Eventually his legal advisers informed him that he had no authority under the Housing Act to buy newspapers at all.

These antics were too much for Murphy and he returned to the Democratic National Committee.

High Cost Housing

Straus' clowning could be overlooked if he accomplished his objective. But the other day he issued a press release on the estimated cost of ten proposed new housing projects, and it was discovered that his costs were running higher than the housing built under PWA. Furthermore, Straus' figures were mere estimates, while the PWA figures were final, and actual cost of construction always runs 15 to 25 per cent more than estimates.

Finally, in order to cut his costs of construction, Straus is eliminating central heating, which PWA used, and is getting away from the substantial fireproof structures built by PWA.

All of this is hard to believe. But talk to the technical experts under Nathan Straus and it is even worse. Straus' experts actually are hoping that their boss will not get the additional money from Congress which he wants, because he hasn't been able to handle what he has. Additional money, they say, would be wasted.

Straus' most amazing "saving" has just come to light. He has been able to cut down the original rent figures set by Ickes by 57 cents per room per month.

PWA rent figure, however, allowed for return to the government of 55 per cent of the original cost. So Straus, in order to shave down rents 57 cents per room per month, tossed out of the window 55 per cent of the $13,000,000 cost of the projects. In other words, the Treasury is now minus $73,700,000.

(Note—Another high official will shortly be nominated by The Washington Merry-Go-Round for Roosevelt's list of decapitations.)

SCHOOL OFFICIALS POOL FORCES; PLAN LEGISLATIVE FIGHT

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19—(AP)—Illinois school officials pooled their forces today in a drive to push a joint six-point program through the coming session of the legislature.

The coalition, formed with the intention of aiding in solution of some of the school problems, prepared to draft bills providing:

A new certification act raising the requirements for beginning teachers from two to four years of college work. (Governor Horner vetoed a similar measure approved by the last regular session.)

An increased state distributive school fund with inducements for voluntary consolidation and bigger teachers' pensions.

Centering of state school accrediting activities in the office of the state superintendent of public instruction.

Each school district shall be guaranteed a building fund rate of at least 12¼ cents on each $100 assessed valuation in addition to requirements for bond and interest payments.

Repeal of the municipal budget law as applied to boards of school directors.

Unite districts comprising grades one to twelve may levy a rate without referendum equal to the combined rates now permitted for separate grade and high school districts.

The agreed program followed closely in the wake of approval of legislative programs containing several common demands by the Illinois Association of School Boards, County & City Superintendents. The Illinois Education Association previously had announced its program.

Representatives of the four organizations and of the Illinois Legislative Council, the Illinois Parent-Teacher Congress, and Allen Manvel, representing Governor Horner, reached the agreement in a meeting with John A. Wieland, state superintendent.

However, the question of a state board of education still loomed as a controversial issue. The IEA and the school board association were on record as favoring an advisory commission but the county superintendents group expressed disapproval of any form of state board.

Manvel told the group Horner was interested in "good, sound school legislation," and considered a state school board an essential body which he hoped to have the legislature establish in the near future.

OPPOSITION TO IMMIGRATION LAW CHANGES APPEARS

Senator Borah Says Congress Will Contest Any Such Proposal

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—Senator Borah (R-Idaho) expressed the opinion today that any attempt to revise the immigration laws to take care of additional refugees from Germany would arouse "tremendous opposition" in congress.

"I do not believe it desirable to undertake to change the immigration laws at this time," he said. "Any possible change would be wholly inadequate for real relief."

President Roosevelt told his press conference yesterday he had no thought of liberalizing present quotas which restrict immigration from Germany and former Austria to 27,370 persons annually.

Some Jewish leaders, however, have suggested the possibility of admitting 80,000 or so refugees immediately by "mortgaging the quotas for the next three years. Under this proposal the three years' quotas would be admitted and the gates then closed until the end of the period.

Dies Challenges F. D. R.

Another congressional comment came from Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the house committee investigating un-American activities, who challenged the right of the president to extend the six-months' visitors permits under which from 12,000 to 15,000 refugees have been admitted.

Roosevelt disclosed yesterday he had asked the labor department to grant six-months' extensions. He added he would present this problem to congress and that if it did not act, the permits might be extended again. The law, he said, does not limit the number of extensions.

Borah declined to discuss the probable source of congressional opposition to easing the immigration restrictions, but one member of the senate immigration committee, who would not permit use of his name, said labor organizations could be expected to protest.

Official actions of the administration have been aimed at solution of the problem by international cooperation. In a statement yesterday, Secretary of State Hull urged "all governments" to participate actively in search for a solution.

TUBERCULIN SKIN TEST TO BE GIVEN IN DIXON SCHOOLS

Through state wide newspaper publicity the Illinois Tuberculosis association recommends that its affiliaed couny associations carry on the campaign to find T. B. in its early stages by means of school surveys.

Studies in other communities show that junior and senior high school groups are of particular importance in the discovery of beginning active disease. It is in these age groups that tuberculosis most often strikes. For this reason directors of your local tuberculosis association offer the services of the organization in promoting a case-finding program in our public schools.

Early tuberculosis is often present without any manifestation of physical symptoms. The modern method of finding the early case is by means of the tuberculin test and x-ray of the lungs.

The tuberculin test is simply an an injection of tuberculin, a colorless sterile liquid, under the skin of the forearm. Reaction to the test merely indicates tuberculosis germs have entered the body of the individual. The test, whether it produces a reaction or not tells nothing of the number of germs, their virulence or the degree of damage done to the lung tissue. The test has no protecive or curative qualities. It is merely a diagnostic procedure.

An individual having a positive reaction to the tuberculin test (slight redness of injection) should be x-rayed for proof of the condition of the lungs. Other school surveys indicate that one out of every four hundred high school students is found suffering from tuberclosis. How these figures would coincide with results of a survey among our students would probably depend on the degree of cooperation of the stdents in submitting to the test and of the positive reactors in having a chest x-ray.

This program was carried on in all other schools of Lee county last spring, with a total of 1200 students tuberculin tested having 90 reactors. These were followed up by chest x-rays and 54 were advised further observation. Out of this entire group was found one active case of tuberculosis.

It is planned to carry on this skin testing program in the Dixon schools in the very near future.

'Honorable Peace' in Labor War is Sought by A. F. of L. and CIO

Pittsburgh, Nov. 19—(AP)—The new Congress of Industrial Organizations, molded from the C. I. O., equipped with a constitution and set of policies, and led by the veteran labor champion, John L. Lewis, moved into the main stream of labor history today committed to two objectives.

Organization of the unorganized workers of America on an industrial basis (one big union for one industry).

Peace and unity in the labor movement with recognition of the principle of industrial unionism.

On these terms the new CIO left open the door to peace with the American Federation of Labor yesterday after closing its first constitutional convention in the same city where the rival craft unionists began their organization 57 years ago.

The noisy, highly-demonstrative convention, working under the gavel pounding of the CIO high command, elevated Lewis to the first presidency by acclamation, filled lesser offices and the seats around a 38-man executive board, and passed reams of resolutions.

The record of the five-day assembly disclosed that the question of labor peace was considered the most important matter before the convention, but no one professed to know how or when labor peace would be achieved.

The round of debate on the peace issue filled the convention hall with the same demands heard at the A. F. of L. convention in Houston last month—"we want an honorable peace."

FORMER DEPUTY HELD

Marion, Ill., Nov. 19—(AP)—Eph Phemister, a Carterville farmer, is at liberty under $1,000 bond as the result of a post-election fracus in which he was charged with assault with intent to kill.

Constable Brad Durham of Goreville signed a complaint charging that Phemister attacked him for working against Phemister's unsuccessful campaign for sheriff in the election. A grand jury will investigate the charge in the February term of court.

Phemister has resigned his position as deputy to Sheriff Zollie Carter of Williamson county.

It is reported that the first traffic light in London, and perhaps in the world, was erected on Dec. 8, 1968. It was between Bridge and Great George streets, Westminster.

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea," (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No. A Minnesota University psychologist, Dr. Carroll, gave the Maier-Seashore Test of Artistic Appreciation to hundreds of college students and found those who made high scores just as stable as those who had little or no appreciation of art. He also compared the most successful artists among the students with the poorest and found no difference in tendency to be temperamental.

Answer ot Question No. 2

2. No. This is just one of those bits of poetic bunk that add to the galety of psychologists and keep them from dying of boredom. Women were not "meant" for anything in particular, except to be women and to be the companions of men and mothers of the race. They are usually harder to understand than men for many reasons, but women were not meant any more to be loved by men than men were meant to be loved by women.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he" and so does he. No truer saying in psychology was ever uttered. If you allow yourself to think the wrong act of course you can't help doing it, but your fault is in not turning your thoughts away from the wrong act. Your acts always follow your thoughts. There is absolutely no way to form a good habit but to think your way into a good one.

FANSTEEL COMPANY CASE IS CONSIDERED BY SUPREME COURT

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—The Supreme Court considered today whether to review litigation to test the right of an employer to discharge workmen who participate in a sit-down strike.

This question, directly affecting the Fansteel Metallurgical Corporation of North Chicago, was before the justices at their regular Saturday conference. An announcement is expected Monday.

The National Labor Relations Board appealed to the high tribunal from a decision by the Federal Circuit Court at Chicago that the strikers could be dismissed.

The board contended that the sit-down strike resulted from refusal of the corporation to bargain collectively with representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers of America.

Because of this, the board said, the men continued to be employes under the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act and could not be discharged.

It contended that the board had the power to order reinstatement of the employes "because of Fansteel's unfair labor practices" and "despite any act of violence."

In reply, Fansteel said that approximately 100 union men had seized two key buildings in 1937 "without notice or warning" and had held them nine days until driven out by police.

"Neither the seizure nor the destruction of property can be defended as legitimate union activity," the corporation said. "The judicial condemnation of the sit-down strike has been universal; its illegality cannot be doubted. Certainly it constitutes more than ample cause for the discharge of the participants."

Junior-Senior Party Is Gay Event of Last Night

The rag-bag and attic trunk were picked clean in more than a few Dixon homes last evening, for upper classmen of Dixon high school were flinging their annual Junior-Senior party that called for the most inappropriate clothes they could assemble. Between 175 and 200 guests enjoyed the evening's fun, which began at 8 o'clock and lasted until 11.

Every inch of the garb chosen by two juniors, Mary Louise Smith and Sterling Schrock, Jr., was funny, and they won the evening's costume prizes. Mary Louise appeared in sombrero, ear muffs, a dressmaker bathing suit, and hiking boots, while Sterling had donned knickers, a stiff collar and a middle part for his hair to impersonate a bicycle rider of the gay 90's. Several were wearing caps and gowns, others chose old-fashioned ruffled nightgowns, one junior was leading his feminine partner dressed in overalls and a tuxedo, and many depended upon funny accessories to lend the desired touch of inappropriateness to their attire.

Farnwell Stauffer presided during a short program, which opened the evening's festivities. Evelyn Worsley sang, accompanied on the piano by Marilee Burns, Miss Burns and Alice Hintz entertained with a piano duet, Theda Emmole gave several impersonations, and Georgia Eastman sang, with Mrs. Myrtle Bishop at the piano.

Miss Emmole was chairman for a dating bureau, which carried on a rushing business before partners were formed for a grand march. An amusing stunt program resulted from the forfeit asked of those who failed to observe the imappropriate dress rule.

George Campbell's orchestra furnished music for dancing, following the grand march.

Floyd Smith, Bob Hofman, Betty Allen, and Virginia Wagner were chairmen for decorations which the guests were asked to assemble after their arrival. A prize was awarded for the best decorated "corner."

Assisting student committees with the evening's party plans were Mrs. H. A. White, Calvin Castle, and Miss Margaret Kling, senior advisers; Miss Cleta White, Miss Ruth Wienman, Miss Olga Neroth, Miss Edith Heinle, Fridolf Lundholf, and Arthur Bowers, junior advisers.

CHICAGO GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. James B. McGuan of Chicago are arriving this evening for a weekend visit with the J. F. Walders. Mrs. McGuan and Mrs. Walder are sisters.

Anne Lindbergh's Book is Reviewed For Woman's Club

Mrs. H. U. Bardwell reviewed Anne Morrow Lindbergh's book, "Listen! The Wind", for members of the Dixon Woman's club and their guests yesterday afternoon in the Dixon High school music room.

"Critics consider the book a great prose poem," Mrs. Bardwell said," and it is written as though being told to a child. Mrs. Lindbergh has a literary style all her own, an easy manner of expressing herself which many writers strive for years to attain."

The story covers the exciting problems and dangers of pioneering in the air, and describes the flight the Lindberghs made across the Atlantic ocean from Africa to Brazil in 1933.

Mrs. Emma Eichler introduced the speaker. Miss Anne Eustace is to give the next book review, early in December.

DINNER PARTY

The L. W. Millers of Franklin Grove were entertaining at dinner on Thursday evening for Dixon, Sterling, Amboy, Polo and Franklin Grove guests. Dinner was followed by an evening of cards, with score favors going to Miss Mildred Nichols of Polo, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Conrad of Sterling, and David O. Wiegel of Amboy.

Dinner covers were arranged for Mr. and Mrs. David Wiegel and Miss Marie Ross of Amboy, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Conrad of Sterling, Miss Mildred Nichols of Polo, James Noakes of Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Hood, Miss Margaret Warrenfeltz, and the Millers of Franklin Grove.

BRIDGE-LUNCHEON

Mrs. Harry Stephan entertained four bridge foursomes at luncheon yesterday, complimenting Mrs. Bennett of California.

The termite, which looks like a white ant, is related to the cricket and cockroach.

More Than 300 Guests See O. E. S. Officers Installed

Newly-elected officers of Dorothy chapter, No. 371, O. E. S. were formally installed last evening in impressive ceremonies which attracted between 300 and 500 members and guests to Brinton Memorial Masonic temple. Visitors were present from Rockford and Forest City chapters of Rockford, Freeport, Rockton, Lanark, Mt. Morris, Polo, and Dixon.

White tapers shining down on white chrysanthemums made an effective setting in the chapter room for the white formals worn by the feminine officers-elect. All-white appointments were also used in the banquet room, where refreshments were served at the close at the installation ritual.

Mrs. Martena Gardner is the new worthy matron, and her husband, Harry Gardner, is the new worthy patron. Mrs. Alma Coss, the retiring worthy matron, was presented with a gift from her officers, and a past matron's jewel from the chapter, with Mrs. Eula Wilson and Mrs. Mildred Beier making the presentations. Earl Bastian presented a past patron's jewel to the retiring worthy patron, Harold Coss.

As Mrs. Gardner knelt at the altar to make her pledge, Mrs. Helen Harridge sang a solo, "My Task."

The new officers will conduct their first stated meeting on Friday evening, Dec. 2.

Miss Lindstrom Wins Four W's Scale Contest

Miss Dorothea Lindstrom received the grand prize for scale playing at a recent meeting of the Four W's Music club at the home of Mrs. Ruth Emmert, having won first place in the contest on three consecutive occasions. Runners-up were Kenneth Esterday and Billy Wadsworth.

"Can we Buy Good Musicianship?" was the topic for general discussion, and Miss Lois Fritts read an interesting paper on "The Life of Johannes Brahms."

Miss Lindstrom was elected secretary to flil the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Beryl Means. The program consisted entirely of piano duets.

The next meeting will be postponed until after the holidays.

MINNESTOA GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Bratton were entertaining at dinner last evening in compliment to Mrs. Fenner and son of Minnesota. Bidden were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Pierce and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glover, Harry Maronde, and the honor guests.

Mrs. Fenner and her son have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Glover and Mr. Maronde. On Thursday evening, they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Pierce. Others in the party on this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Glover, Mr. Maronde, and Mr. and Mrs. Bratton.

Chicago Critic Has Praise for Nolf Paintings

In his column "Around the Galleries," in today's Chicago Daily News, C. J. Bulliet had the following concerning John T. Nolf, "mayor of Grand Detour" and well known artist:

John Nolf's Farmers

John T. Nolf, "philosopher of Grand Detour," paints his neighbors in their farm and village activities—the plowmen, the Monday morning washerwoman, the scythe "hangers," the aftersupper card players. His pictorial report of Illinois rural life is on exhibition at the Chicago Galleries Association. Nolf, kindly of heart, "pulls his punches" when he deals with his neighbors. He is the flattering village photographer rather than the brutal "candid camera" stranger. There is no grime on the shoes of his clodhoppers, no smell of rancid sweat from their shirts. Nevertheless, Nolf's farmers are American, and neither Mexican peons of our "American scene" painters of today, nor French peasants of our "advanced" artists of yesterday. Nolf plus a brutal punch might give Grand Detour a world-wide fame. Concurrently, at the Chicago Galleries, are sentimental farm landscapes by C. Curry Bohm of Brown County, Indiana, and portraits by Sara Crosby Buck of Glencoe, Ill.

HOUSEHOLD CLUB

Mrs. Grace Lund, Mrs. Kathryn Metz, and Miss Darlene Clymer were co-hostesses at the first all-day meeting of the season, Thursday, for members of the Zion Household Science club. They entertained with an all day meeting and scramble luncheon at Mrs. Lund's home.

Nineteen members were present to assist with the club quilt, and there were five visitors. Mrs. Carolyn Laursen and Mrs. Blanche Mekeel are to receive club quilts.

Mrs. Blanche Mekeel has invited the members to meet at her home on Tuesday, Nov. 22, to complete the club quilt. There will be a scramble luncheon.

Christmas gifts will be exchanged at the next regular meeting.

DeMolays to be Holiday Dance Hosts, Nov. 25

Next week, bringing with it Thanksgiving, one of the country's most firmly established holidays, will be a busy one for most everybody. Many club meetings and social gatherings will be crowded into the early part of the week, giving way to holiday cleebrations that will end the next seven days in gala manner.

One of the gayest events of the week will be the tenth annual DeMolay dance, being planned for Friday evening, Nov. 25, in Brinton Memorial Masonic temple. Stan Stanley, originator of tick-tock rhythm, and his dance band will be imported for the occasion, and will entertain from 9 o'clock until 1. An electric organ, an electric guitar, and a vocalist are popular features of the orchestra.

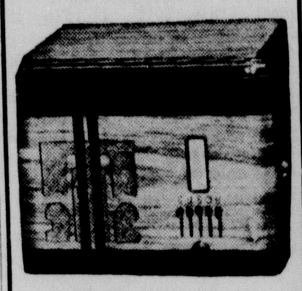

Committees have been hard at work for some time, and are determined to make the evening one long to be remembered.

Composing the committees are: Publicity—L. C. Shoaf, Jr., Arthur Handell, Jr., Sterling Schrock, Jr., and Gerald Coakley; decorations—Floyd Smith, La Verne McMillion, John Naylor, Donald Walburg, and Bob Sanborn; tickets—Bob Austin and George Dorland.

AFTERNOON PARTY

Glen Swarts celebrated his fourteenth birthday anniversary on Tuesday afternoon at a surprise celebration at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Alice M. Lawton. Fourteen schoolmates shared the birthday lunch.

Elks Ladies Plan Guest Day Party

A Guest Day party was planned when members of the Elks Ladies' Auxiliary met at the club house for card play yesterday afternoon. Auxiliaries from Mendota and Sterling will be invited to join the local group for a scramble luncheon and bridge on Dec. 2, with Mrs. Robert Espy acting as hostess chairman.

Seven tables were made up for yesterday's bridge games. Mrs. Merton Ransom and Miss Edith Slothower received prizes at the close of play.

Dixon Hostesses Named for State Bar Luncheon

Mrs. Harry C. Warner and Mrs. John P. Devine of Dixon will be presiding as hostesses when wives and daughters of the Sixth judicial district of the Illinois Bar association meet for luncheon on Friday, Nov. 25, at the Stevens hotel in Chicago. Mrs. Warner is district chairman of the woman's organization, and Mrs. Devine is a member of the board of governors.

Mrs. Elwyn R. Shaw of Freeport, whose husband is chief justice of the Illinois Supreme Court, is to be the special guest of the Sixth district group, for whom reservations are being made in the Tower room. Five other luncheon parties for the various other districts will be held simultaneously.

The luncheons will be preceeded by a business meeting at 10 o'clock.

P. E. O. MEETING

Mrs. A. H. Lancaster and Miss Edna Burnham will be co-hostesses to Chapter AC, P. E. O. Sisterhood, at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Lancaster home. "The Pilgrim's Hour" is to be the theme for the afternoon's program, planned by Mrs. W. H. Coppins.

Eight Drowned When Auto Ran Into Hole

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 19—(AP)—Seven boys and a man drowned in a hole near an anthracite colliery today when their automobile plunged into 20 feet of water.

Charles L. Perry of the Wyoming Valley Crippled children's Association identified the car as the property of the association. He said the driver, a chauffeur for the association, was taking boys to a hospital clinic.

Walter Pivornik of Wilkes-Barre township identified two of the boys as his brothers.

All of the bodies remained in the car when it was pulled out of the water by a huge railroad crane. The hole opened up about three months ago as a result of a mine settlement.

The road had been blocked by huge piles of ashes.

Engineers' Report on River in Ten Months

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 19—(AP)—Estimates showing Rock river valley flood losses between Erie, Ill., and the river's mouth at Rock Island aggregated one million dollars in the last five years, were presented at a public hearing on flood control held here by army engineers today.

Other reports of damage were listed with no estimates given. There were 200 present at the meeting.

Lt. Col. E. E. Gesler, head of the Rock Island engineer district said it would require 10 months for the engineers to make their own field studies and draft a preliminary report to Washington.

Today's session was the last of three hearings this week, others being at Beloit, Wis., and Sterling.

Anti-Semitism—

In Spain, saw the government salient on the west bank of the Ebro river wiped out after being held since July but a new government front curved on the Segre river, 30 miles north, and a government offensive was launched to recapture Tremp, source of Barcelona's hydro-electric power, in northern Catalonia.

In China, saw Japanese conquerors of Hankow pierce deeper into the center of the country from the former provisional capital although slowed down by Chinese counter-offensives. Japanese airplanes carried bombing raids to China's deep interior to cut off inland supply routes from India, Burma and Mongolia.

Berlin, Nov. 19—(AP)—The German word "Jehova"—taken from the Hebrew for God—was ordered erased from Protestant churches in parts of Germany today, while authenticated reports indicated Jewry had given more than one life for the slaying of a German diplomat.

An order of President Friedrich Werner of the Supreme Evangelical Church Council said the name of God of Israel must be rubbed out wherever displayed in Protestant churches as well as the names of the Jewish prophets —all those of the Old Testament.

The action was termed a sequel to threats in parts of Saxony that Christian churches permitting such names to remain would be set afire, as were Jewish synagogues last week when a wave of anti-Semitic violence broke out.

Expect Disobedience

Some theologicans said, however, the order did not have the force of law. It was expected a large part of the clergy would not obey it.

There is only one other German word—Gott—to take the place of Jehova.

How many Jews have paid with their lives for the slaying of Ernst Vom Rath in Paris Nov. 7 by a young Polish Jew is a question which various foreign embassies were asking as authenticated reports reached them of Jew killings during past weeks of anti-Semitic disturbances.

Every foreign mission, it may be assumed, has in its archieves cases of Jews whose families pleaded for visas to leave the country because a husband, father or brother lost their lives last week.

15,000 JEWS FIRED

Rome, Nov. 19—(AP)—Fifteen thousand Jews were said by usually reliable sources today to have been dropped from government and private jobs in the past four days.

The action was in compliance with the sweeping cabinet decree of Nov. 10 excluding Jews from government positions, restricting their businesses and professions and forbidding their marriage to Italian aryans.

The same sources said Jews would be barred from participation in Italy's repatriation project under which more than half a million Italians living abroad are expected to be returned to the homeland.

They expressed belief that many jobs now held by Jews in Italy would be given to the repatriates.

Meanwhile, political circles heard that Father Pietro Tacchi-Venturi, rector of Rome's Church of Jesus and noted peacemaker between the fascist government and the Vatican, was at work seeking a solution of the marriage law dispute.

Pope Pius protested against the marriage restrictions on the ground they were in violation of the concordat between the church and Italy.

Father Tacchi-Venturi has intervened on various occasions as confidential go-between for both Pope Pius and Premier Mussolini. His latest triumph was the agreement reached last August between the fascist party and Italy's Catholic action, smoothing over differences which threatened the country with serious political discord.

LEGION CONDEMNATION

Indianapolis, Nov. 19—(AP)—A resolution denouncing the German government for its anti-Jewish acts was adopted today by the American Legion's executive committee. Copies were sent to President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull.

"We denounce and deplore," the resolution said, "the policy of the German government and protest against the religious and economic injustice and persecution of minorities as detrimental to the interest of humanity and civilization."

The resolution stated in another paragraph, "Distressing news of the persecution of racial and religious minorities in Germany portrays a horrible spectacle of innocent peoples of all faiths, being subjected to imprisonment, punishment, destruction of property, deprivation of the opportunity of earning a living with many resultant suicides and much misery."

WOULD OPEN ALASKA

New York, Nov. 19—(AP)—A proposal that Alaska be opened to victims of Nazi anti-Semitic measures followed today announcements that Spain and Cuba had offered haven to refugees from Germany.

Declaring Alaskans "continuously appeal for new settlers," Rep. Charles A. Buckley (D-NY) said he would be happy to introduce a bill at the next Congress excluding Alaska from quota restrictions of the immigration law.

His suggestion was made in a letter to President Roosevelt.

Col. Fulgencia Batista, commander-in-chief of the Cuban army, and Gernando de Los Rios, ambassador from government Spain, offered their countries as sanctuaries for distressed minorities.

PICKET CONSULATE

New York, Nov. 19—(AP)—The German consulate was picketed today by several hundred men and women carrying blackbordered signs denouncing the treatment of Jews in Germany.

Forty policemen stood guard and 66 others were held in reserve nearby—all under the command of Capt. Max Finkelstein and his mainstays, Lieut. Jacob Licker and Sergeant Isaac Goldstein, named by Mayor La Guardia and Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine as the all-Jewish guard for nazi visitors and property.

Organizations represented in the demonstration were the Socialist Workers party, the Progressive Women's Council, and the Independent Labor League of America.

BUND PLANS CAMPAIGN

New York, Nov. 19—(AP)—Fritz Kuhn, German-American Bund leader, has announced the Bund will campaign "to rid this country of Jews."

Kuhn told a rally of the organization in Queen last night he would pattern its program after that of Adolf Hitler.

"While the Bund has absolutely no connection with Germany," he said, "it is but to do for this country what Hitler is doing for Germany, namely, rid it of the Jews."

Dr. S. Chandler Bend Host Friday Evening

Approximately 150 guests from within a radius of 50 miles of Dixon attended the monthly party arranged last evening by Dr. S. Chandler Bend for his patients and friends. The affair was held in the Moose hall.

During the social hour, music was furnished by Betty Witzleb, Georgia Eastman, Donald and Lester Kieffer, and Dr. Gladys Bend of Mt. Morris, sister of the host. Mrs. Myrtle Bishop was the accompanist, and was also at the piano for a musical quiz contest, in which Miss Evelyn Duffey won honors.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Drs. Anstrom of Rockford and Dr. Malty of LaSalle were among the out-of-town guests. The next party date has been set for Dec. 20.

VETERAN JUDGE QUITS

North Brookfield, Mass., Nov. 19—(AP)—Luther Emerson Barnes, 95 today, resigned as special justice of East Brookfield district court, a post he had held 36 years. He considers work a "cure-all" for evils, but said he thinks he is old enough to retire.

Claim TVA Fertilizer Experiments of Benefit

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—Thomas P. Cooper, dean of agriculture at the University of Kentucky, told the TVA investigating committee today that TVA fertilizer experiments had benefitted farmers throughout the nation.

Cooper described what he called close cooperation between TVA and land-grant colleges in Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

Cooper is chairman of a coordinating committee representing these agricultural colleges, TVA and Federal agricultural agencies.

He said TVA experiments on production of triple super-phosphate were vital to fertility of farm lands in the TVA area and elsewhere.

Francis Biddle, counsel for the investigating committee, asked Cooper if the TVA process for phosphate production by electric blast furnaces presented the only method for commercial development of vast phosphate resources in the northwest.

The professor said this might be true but he did not feel competent to judge.

Cooper also declined to compare fertilizers produced and sold by commercial agencies and TVA. Biddle, in a series of questions, implied that some commercial fertilizers now used ultimatley damaged farm lands.

Activities Dixon Church Societies

Women's Meeting — "Church Work in Social and Civic Activities of Dixon" was the subject chosen by Mrs. Elda Robbins of Sterling for discussion at a special women's meeting sponsored by the Missoinary Guild of the Dixon Christian church. The speaker is a teacher of religion in the Sterling schools.

Other numbers on the program included: Instrumental music, Miss Goldie Gigous; solo, "Our Father," Betty Mossholder; Scripture, Mrs. Winifred Wells; prayer, Mrs. James Barnett; address of welcome, Mrs. Lucille Poole.

A social hour followed in the church basement. Miss Savilla Palmer and Mrs. Estherbelle McLennan sang a duet, accompanied by Miss Gertrude Mercer on the piano, and Leon McCardle gave a reading. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

LEADERS OF MAJOR PARTIES TO STUDY ELECTION RETURNS

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP) — Republican and Democratic leaders, having sifted the election returns for hints of voter trends, will begin in the next 10 days to formulate the strategy by which they hope to win a presidential election victory two years hence.

A number of Democratic national committee members from southern and eastern states will meet in New York Monday and Tuesday to plan the Jackson Day dinners of January 8 and discuss the congressional and gubernatorial gains made by the Republicans.

A week later, November 29, the Republican committee will gather here to study the past year's accomplishments and prepare a budget and schedule for the year ahead.

Leaders of both groups have indicated they will do no more than discuss policy in general terms at this time. At least two sessions of congress will intervene before the 1940 platforms are finally written and legislative developments may vitally affect the planks that eventually are put in.

Republican and Democratic leaders have differed widely in their interpretations of the election. Republicans have asserted the results constituted a rebuff to the Roosevelt administration and pointed to a national overthrow of the Democrats.

But President Roosevelt and James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, have expressed the view that popular support of fundamental administration policies was not reflected extensively.

THANKSGIVING DAY PROCLAMATION ISSUED BY PRESIDENT

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—President Roosevelt said in his annual Thanksgiving Day proclamation today the nation had "ample cause to be thankful" for peace among other blessings.

"We have lived in peace and understanding with our neighbors and have seen the world escape from the impending disaster of a general war," the Chief Executive said.

"In the time of our fortune it is fitting that we offer prayers for unfortunate people in other lands who are in dire distress at this our Thanksgiving season."

The proclamation designated Thursday, November 24, as a day of general thanksgiving.

The President said "our lands have yielded a goodly harvest, and the toiler in shop and mill receives a more just return for his labor.

"We have cherished and preserved our democracy".

The Chief Executive noted that "our fathers set aside such a day as they hewed a nation of the primeval forest."

"The observance was consecrated when George Washington issued a thanksgiving proclamation in the first year of his presidency", he said. "Abraham Lincoln set apart 'a day of thanksgiving and praise to our Beneficent Father who dwelleth in the heavens.'

"Thus from our earliest recorded history, Americans have thanked God for their blessings. In our deepest natures, in our very souls, we, like all mankind since the earliest origin of mankind, turned to God in time of trouble and in time of happiness. 'In God we trust.'"

Go to Church Sunday

In this day of speed and travel it is difficult to expect the present or future generations to care for individual cemetery lots.

A few years past in the horse and buggy days, families would put their lawn mowers and trimming tools in the buggy and drive out to the cemetery on Sunday afternoons. There they would meet the families with the same interests and spend a happy afternoon beautifying their family estate and visiting friends.

Many of you who read this remember those days. But conditions have changed and so have cemeteries. The old cemeteries have become neglected and the new have planned differently.

Realizing the changing times and that the care must always rest with the management, has taken every precaution to insure perpetual care.

CONGRESS REVIEW OF TRADE TREATY PROGRAMS LIKELY

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP) — Conflicting viewpoints expressed on the new British and Canadian trade agreements by businessmen and political leaders foreshadowed today a lively discussion in the new congress.

The comments ranged from bitter criticism to unstinted praise. Those of congress members, for the most part, followed party lines, Democrats praising the agreements and Republicans questioning their value to the United States.

Any discussion in the next congress will almost necessarily be in the nature of an informal review, because the reciprocal trade act gives the president and the secretary of state authority to consummate agreements without senate ratification.

Members of congress who are dissatisfied with the results, however, may press for an amendment to the law, to give the legislative branch a veto power over future agreements.

A group of leaders in banking, industry nad commerce expressed general approval of the new agreements during a radio broadcast last night. They included Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Company; Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National Bank, George H. Davis, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors Corporation.

On the other hand, Russell T. Fisher, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, declared the administration had "traded away employment in textiles."

Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, praised the agreement but said it could not substantially relieve the problem of cotton surpluses.

Expressions from farm leaders were somewhat at variance. Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, contended farmers would obtain distinct benefits. Louis J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, said he hoped the agreements would aid agriculture, but asserted the reciprocal tariff program had not done so in the past.

Big Ten Finale Played Today

Apostoli Kayoes Corbett to Win 'Title'

FANFARE--

By DON DANIELSON

Several Dixon young men are considering the organization of a volley ball league, the games to be played at the high school gymnasium during the winter months. Ben Schildberg is organizing the players and several have already indicated their desire to participate in the games. Any prospective candidates may obtain complete details by contacting Mr. Schildberg at K-236.

Sterling and Rock Falls high school football teams are being groomed for their annual Turkey Day tilt. This may be the last Thanksgiving day battle between the old foes. Most teams with whom they compete in basketball are already into their practice season and this gives Sterling and Rock Falls a tardy start and something of a disadvantage. Sterling has an Armistice day contract with Dixon and unless other arrangements can be made, it would appear that Townships' season will close away from home every other year.

Nomination blanks for Rocky Wolfe's 17th annual all-state high school football selections have been mailed to coaches and sports writers in the state. Final standings, which determine the all-state team, are expected to be announced within a few weeks. Rocky Wolfe is sports editor of the City News Bureau in Chicago and is well known in Lee county. Last month he was the principal speaker at the baseball banquet at Steward.

Pat Harmon, sports editor of a Champaign newspaper, has mentioned Earl Page and Gene Ashford, ends on the Dixon high school football team, as candidates for the all-state squad which he selects each year with the co-operation of his "scouts." The list is still incomplete and tackles and ends have had the first consideration.

Princeton high school is seeking to join with some conference, or the formation of a new one. There has been talk a number of times of having Princeton or Geneseo in the North Central conference in place of Belvidere. The latter school is too far away for Sterlineg fans to make the trip. There is also talk along the grapevine of enlarging the conference which now includes only Sterling, Dixon, Belvidere, Mendota and DeKalb to include Rock Falls which appears to have outgrown its own conference. Also, it has been suggested that the conference could be divided into an east-west division with a play-off between the divisional champions.

Briefly noted and in haste: Kings defeated Lee's defending champions of the Meridian conference at Kings last night by a score of 20 to 17 . . .

About the time you read this the Western Conference title will be in the hands of one of the Big Ten teams. It looks like Wisconsin as this is written. If you are interested in the history of the conference champions, here is the dope:

1896, Wisconsin; 1897, Wisconsin; 1898, Michigan; 1899, Chicago; 1900, Iowa, Minnesota; 1901, Michigan, Wisconsin; 1902, Michigan; 1903, Michigan, Minnesota; 1904, Michigan, Minnesota; 1905, Chicago; 1906, Wisconsin, Minnesota; 1907, Chicago; 1908, Chicago; 1909, Minnesota, 1910, Illinois, Minnesota; 1911, Minnesota; 1912, Wisconsin, 1913, Chicago; 1914, Illinois; 1915, Illinois, Minnesota; 1916, Ohio State; 1917, Ohio State; 1918, Illinois, Michigan, Purdue; 1919, Illinois; 1920, Ohio State; 1921, Iowa; 1922, Iowa, Michigan, Chicago; 1923, Illinois, Michigan; 1924, Chicago; 1925, Michigan; 1926, Michigan, Northwestern; 1927, Illinois; 1928, Illinois; 1929, Purdue; 1930, Northwestern, Michigan; 1931, Michigan; 1932, Michigan; 1933, Michigan; 1934, Minnesota; 1935, Minnesota, Ohio; 1936, Northwestern; 1937, Minnesota.

TWO MAJOR GRID CONFERENCES TO END PLAY TODAY

Oklahoma, Iowa State Meet to Determine the Title of Big Six

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Nov. 19—(AP)—The Big Ten and the Big Six, the major Middle Western conferences and two of the strongest football "league" in the nation, wound up their championship affairs today while the schedule in other sections showed a just-before-the-end lull.

The Big Six battle was strictly a two-team affair as unbeaten and untied Oklahoma and undefeated but tied Iowa State met at Ames, Ia., to fight it out for the title.

The Western Conference presented another problem, however. Minnesota and Wisconsin came together at Madison, Wis., in the major game. Each has won three games and lost one within the circuit. They can't settle the championship between them, however, unless Michigan can dispose of Ohio State's claims. The Buckeyes have three victories, a tie and a defeat on their record, and ties aren't counted in the standings. Both games were considered tossups with Minnesota and Michigan, perhaps, as slight favorites.

Then Notre Dame's great team, now rated about the best in the country, took on Northwestern's sharp-clawed Wildcats. The records favored the Irish until it is remembered Northwestern upset Minnesota when the Gophers looked just as unbeatable as Notre Dame does now.

Other Windup Games

Other windup games in the Big Ten included the Purdue-Indiana scrap for the Old Oaken Bucket and Chicago vs. Illinois. Iowa played Nebraska of the Big Six. Two other Big Six members took on outside competition as Kansas State faced Washburn and Missouri met St. Louis.

Elsewhere games backed by time-honored traditions rated top billing, although the championship hopes of such teams as Texas Christian, Utah and California may be affected.

The most venerable of the "classics" was the East's 57th Yale-Harvard game. The east also offered Columbia-Syracuse, Pitt-Penn State, Lafayette-Lehigh and Princeton-Army, the last a resumption of a series that was broken off 30 years ago.

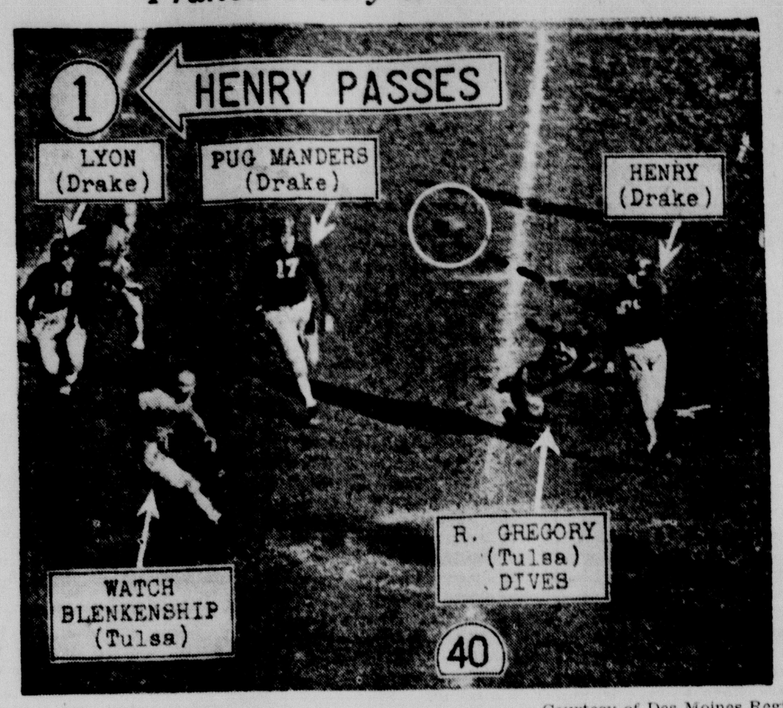

Features in South

Headliners in the south were Georgia-Auburn, one of Dixie's oldest rivalries ,and unbeaten, untied, unscored-on Duke against North Carolina state. In the southwest a mighty Texas Christian outfit sought to take another step towards the conference title and a perfect record as it played Rice's crippled outfit while Southern Methodist, the runnerup, took on Baylor.

Utah, unbeaten in the Rocky Mountain Big Seven, looked like a cinch against last-place Wyoming, while California, co-leader of the Pacific Coast conference, met a very unsuccessful Stanford team.

Other interesting tussles included Boston College against unbeaten, untied little St. Anselm, Manhattan-West Virginia, Fordham-South Carolina and Bucknell-George Washington in the east; Georgia Tech-Florida and Tulane-Sewanee in the Southeastern Conference; such widespread intersectional affairs as Maryland-Georgetown, Centenary-Depaul, Michigan State-Temple, Detroit-Tulsa, Arizona-Marquette and Loyola (Los Angeles)-Hardin Simmons. Oregon and Washington met in the coast conference. Colorado State opposed Brigham Young in the Big Seven while Utah State took on Idaho.

In Drake's surprising upset of Tulsa last week-end, Francis Henry of Dixon is shown as he passes to Tulsa's 32-yard line for the first touchdown drive of the game which ended in a 27 to 7 triumph for the Bulldogs. It was a banner day for the young Dixonite who scored two of his team's touchdowns and was responsible for several completed passes.

Jim Londos Defeats Nronko Nagurski on Mat

Philadelphia, Nov. 19—(AP)—The world's heavyweight wrestling championship, as recognized in Pennsylvania and several other states was held today by Jim Londos, 42-year-old Greek-born grappler.

Londos, a 242-pounder, gained the title last night when he threw Bronko Nagurski, of Chicago, in 47 minutes 11 seconds with an airplane spin and body press before 10,000 applauding fans.

GRAND OLD MAN OF BASEBALL ENJOYS HIS 69th BIRTHDAY

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—One of baseball's grand old men—Clark Calvin Griffith, president of the Washington Senators—will be 69 tomorrow.

"And by sin," he shouted through a thick haze of smoke from a strong cigar, "I could get out there tomorrow and pitch."

He probably could.

At 69, the bushy-browed little men who was one of the game's great hurlers, is fit.

He plays 18 holes of golf daily with son-in-law, Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, and often shoots in the 70's.

Griffith's 56 years of baseball have brought him the reputation of being one of the shrewdest traders in the game.

His friends say it goes back to his first game of baseball in Clear Creek, Mo., when he was 13 years old.

But let Griff tell it—

"We sent a boy on horseback 12 miles for a store ball and we gave him $1.25 to buy it. The second fellow up for the Possum-Trot team gave it a whack. It bust."

Investigation revealed it was a 25 cent ball. The horseback rider had pocketed the $1.00. Then and there Griff realized there was a money angle to the game.

And—baseball history will bear it out that Clark Griffith had been stung but few times since.

Baseball generally calls him the old fox. Some others call him stingy. Yet everybody doesn't know everything about Griff.

He and Mrs. Griffith have adopted seven children. The free meals he's bought would keep an army.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS OUT AT ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE

Annapolis, Ind., Nov. 19—(AP)—Historic St. John's College, which hit the trail back to the classics a year ago, took another bold stride away from the convention pattern of American colleges today by abolishing intercollegiate athletic competition.

With the departure from the intercollegiate picture came a sharply worded statement by President Stringfellow Barr, criticizing what he termed a "semi-professional system" in which "the term 'athletic scholarship' is widely used to hide subsidy and professionalism" in America's collegiate athletics.

St. John's, he said, from now on will give first consideration to "student pleasure." And so, after the end of the current school year, and its athletic schedules, the ivy-covered college on the banks of the quiet Severn will concentrate on a greatly expanded intramural program.

This year's football squad, playing a "de-emphasized" program, scheduled five games and has lost four without scoring a point. The fifth, with Johns Hopkins, will be played November 26. Next year the college will play six-man football—on an intramural basis.

Both Valentine (Dutch) Lentz, athletic director, and John Donohue, his assistant, have resigned effective in June. A tutor, with athletic experience, and a "full understanding" of St. John's new academic program, will succeed them.

APOSTOLI'S WIN DEPENDS ON HOW YOU LOOK AT IT

His Reward Is Half of The "Muddleweight" Crown

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Nov. 19—(AP)—Fred Apostoli holds today at least half of the world's "muddleweight" or 160-pound, boxing championship, the reward for his eighth-round technical knockout of Young Corbett 3rd, a fellow Californian, last night in Madison Square Garden.

Corbett, 33 years old and weary as time, sank down on one knee and gave up the ghost in 2:01 of the eighth after Apostoli had knocked him down three times. Some 7,500 spectators, including Col. Fulgencio Batista, head man of Cuba, declared it a pretty dull evening.

Though he lost the first three rounds to his left-handed opponent, Apostoli gave the impression from the start he could win when he got ready. The amazement was that Corbett ever won a 10-round decision over him last February on the coast.

"Wore Me Down"

Corbett in his dressing room lifted tired eyes to say: "He just wore me down. He was too strong, and his body punches hurt me terribly." One of his handlers said: "You can't keep on fooling Old Man Time. He finally gets you."

The situation now is that Apostoli holds the world's middleweight championship, providing you ask the New York State Athletic commission. If you should ask the National Boxing association, which controls the game in most of the rest of the country, the champion is Solly Krieger of Brooklyn, who was a critical witness of last night's exhibition.

"I ought to bat out either of those mugs in a couple of rounds", said Solly, earnestly, when asked his candid opinion.

His manager, Hymie Caplin, hastened to interject that Solly would not be defending his share of the 160-pound laurels against Apostoli for some time to come, having other engagements in the hinterland.

Changed His Style

Apostoli, whose favorite lick is a left hook, changed his style entirely to nail Corbett last night. He was right-hand crazy, so to speak. He kept trying to throw it, and for the first three rounds he got nothnig for his pains except a mouthful of leather and a series of boos from the crowd for hitting low.

He did a little better in the fourth, and in the fifth he began scoring bulls-eyes on Corbett's chin. The veteran wilted rapidly, and by the close of the sixth round obviously was in bad shape.

Early in the seventh the young, vigorous Apostoli dug a left deep into Corbett's middle, and Corbett went down for a nine-count. Another flurry to the body put him down for eight before the round ended.

He barely came out for the fatal eighth. Quickly Apostoli pounced upon him and drove him to the canvas for a count of nine. He rose on sagging legs to meet another onslaught, but thought better of it and went back down, shaking his head. Referee Eddie Josephs motioned Apostoli to his corner and said that was enough.

Columbus, O., Nov. 19—Ohio State's basketball team plays seven games in 10 days this winter. During the Christmas holidays the Buckeyes perform six times on the west coast and once at West Point.

From the Camps

AT CAMP RANDALL

Madison, Wis., Nov. 19—(AP)—Wisconsin football fans counted on speed and superior reserves to carry the Badgers to their first Big Ten championship in 26 years against Minnesota's title-defenders in a clash before a sell-out crowd of approximately 39,000 here today.

The game is the 48th of a series in which Minnesota won 27, Wisconsin 15 and five ended with tie scores. The Gophers won last year at Minneapolis, 13 to 6.

Both teams have won three games and lost one in the conference this season. A clear title will go to the winner if Michigan beats Ohio State.

Minnesota, with the aid of Fullback Bronko Nagurski, blasted Wisconsin's last chance of taking the championship with a 6 to 0 victory here in 1928. This year the Badgers have Howie Weiss, widely acclaimed for all-American fullback honors, as their big hope of reversing the picture of 10 years ago.

The game seemed destined to become a battle of lines, with plenty of offensive power on both sides. The two clubs have a goodly share of first-rank performers, both in the backfield and the forward wall.

The Minnesota team laid over in Milwaukee last night, dodging all interviewers. Insiders, however, said George Franck, speed merchant, would start at left halfback in Harold Van Every's spot.

AT DYCHE STADIUM

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 19—(AP)—Notre Dame's mighty eleven, whose lightning like thrusts have mowed down seven foes, turned loose its football thunder against Northwestern today in an effort to make it eight in a row.

The Irish drive to a mythical national championship and their first undefeated season since 1930 drew a capacity crowd of more than 48,000 to Dyche Stadium.

Northwestern was the first of two remaining teams blocking the Notre Dame title path. Southern California was still to be disposed of after today's battle in which the Irish again turned to its aggressive line and such versatile backs as Bob Saggau, Harry Stevenson and Lou Zontini to bring victory.

Northwestern, vulnerable all season against such Irish assets as speed and effective passing, was further handicapped by injuries which kept three regulars from performing at top efficiency. They included Bob Voigts and John Haman and Halfback Jack Ryan.

Despite their crippled condition, the Wildcats, menacing enough most of the season, were out to balk their favored foe and escape the fate which overtook Kansas, Georgia Tech, Illinois, Carnegie Tech, Army, Navy and Minnesota.

The kickoff was at 2 P. M. (CST).

AT BUCKEYE STADIUM

Columbus, O. Nov. 19—(AP)—Ohio State and Michigan reached the end of the 1938 football trail today at Buckeye stadium, each wagering its Western Conference championship chance on the outcome of a clash before a crowd expected to reach 70,000.

An Ohio State victory would assure the Bucks either a share or outright possession of the Big Ten laurels, depending on the outcome of the Minnesota-Wisconsin set-to. Michigan's hopes of landing in the title bracket hinged on a Wolverine victory and a deadlock between Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The Bucks had a heavy weight advantage, an edge which loomed greater as the result of drenching rains which fell yesterday and last night, soaking the playing field. The slipperly going was expected to hamper Michigan's fleet-footed backs to some extent, placing the squads on more even terms since the Ohioans were distinct underdogs until the downpour.

OLD OAKEN BUCKET

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 19—(AP)—Purdue fights for a chance at top rank in the Big Ten standing and Indiana for its second win of a bad season in the forty-first football game between Hoosierdom's two western conference schools here today.

Thirty-two thousand fans were expected to see the battle, which will determine possession of the "Old Oaken Bucket" trophy.

Purdue has won 22 previous contests between the schools and Indiana 14. They have tied in four.

AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Nov. 19—(AP)—University of Chicago's Maroons unleashed their razzle dazzle of the Illinois stalwarts today in a final effort to earn a Big Ten conference football victory.

Illinois has won one of four conference starts, while Chicago fell in all three of its previous engagements. It was the 42nd game of a long grid rivalry.

IOWA'S HAWKEYES

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 19—(AP)—Iowa's Hawkeyes, battered about no end this season, closed their 1938 football season today against Nebraska neighbors, the Cornhuskers, who likewise have been having their troubles this fall.

The teams went into their traditional battle with identical records. Each had won one game, tied one and had five defeats.

ANNIVERSARY OF FAMOUS ADDRESS

Lincoln Delivered Deathless Speech at Gettysburg 75 Years Ago

New York, Nov. 19—(AP)—Three score and 15 years ago today, a speaker who had been invited as an afterthought—and without expectation that he would accept—gave the world a two-minute speech that has become deathless.

The speaker was Abraham Lincoln. The speech was the famous "Gettysburg Address."

The commission that planned the dedication of the National Cemetery at Gettysburg on Nov. 19, 1863, had no idea Lincoln would attend. He did not even receive a formal invitation, merely a printed circular such as was sent to congressmen.

When Lincoln accepted promptly, the commission was vaguely disturbed. If the President attended, the President should be asked to speak, and the commission was not at all sure how he would behave.

Ability Questioned

Not only were there legends of his backwoods uncouthness, but a baseless story was going the rounds that he had cracked jokes in the sacred surroundings of Antietam. So there may have been some reason why, as Col. Clark E. Carr, Illinois member of the commission, put it, "the question was raised as to his ability to speak upon such a grave and solemn occasion."

The President finished the greater part of the first draft of his address before leaving Washington at noon Nov. 18. Perhaps he made a few notes on the train, nothing more. At any rate, the legend that he jotted the famous words on the back of an envelope while sitting in a rattling railroad coach has been pretty thoroughly exploded.

The address was finished in his Gettysburg quarters in the David Wills house on the diamond, a house that still looks over the hub of life in the Pennsylvania college town. He wrote it the night before the dedication, revised it next morning into the form in which it was delivered on the field where 50,000 men had been killed or wounded only four months before.

Clouded in Controversy

It is strange that so noted an event should be clouded with controversy, yet it is a fact that authorities disagree on even so commonplace a topic as the weather on the dedication day. The preponderance of evidence is that the weather was fair; yet, on the fiftieth anniversary of the speech, four veterans attended a Gettysburg service and told their stories of the dedication—and each story was different!

There is disagreement also about the reception of the speech. Some recalled tumultuous applause, others were equally firm in asserting that Lincoln's words were greeted in dead silence.

Prospective Judges Have Heard Nothing

Chicago, Nov. 19—(AP)—Attorney General Otto Kerner and U. S. District Attorney Michael L. Igoe, frequently mentioned for promotion to Federal judgeships, said today they had no information to confirm reports that appointments might be made soon by President Roosevelt.

Kerner, former Circuit and Appellate judge, had been recommended for the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals by Governor Horner. Igoe has had strong backing for a district judgeship. New seats on both benches here were created by the last Congress.

Should Igoe get a judgeship, Democratic circles heard a new name mentioned for district attorney, that of Willis J. Campbell of Chicago, state director of the National Youth administration.

REPORT ON POSTMORTEM

The report of findings of the doctors performing the post mortem examination on the body of Herbert F. Harden, Elgin salesman, who was found dead in his wrecked car, were heard yesterday afternoon at the continuation of the inquest started at the time of his death.

Dr. Edgar C. Cook and Dr. Charles Harris made reports on their findings. Dr. Lang of Rockford was not there to testify.

After a short deliberation the jury reported the verdict as accidental death due to crushing injuries suffered in an accident on U. S. highway No. 34 when a heart attack caused him to lose control of the car crashing into a culvert.

"BLOW ME DOWN."

The next meeting will be held on Dec. 15 at the Neuman home at which time election of officers will take place. A scramble luncheon will be held at this meeting.

President Clears His Desk for Jaunt South

Washington, Nov. 19—(AP)—President Rooseevlt worked today to clear his desk of a mass of business before transferring the center of governmental activity to the southland for the next two weeks.

He will leave late tomorrow for Warm Springs, Ga., where, between swims in the health resort's outdoor pool, he expects to hold conference on the new legislative program. There is a possibility, too, that Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson will go there when he returns from Berlin to give Roosevelt a first-hand account of happenings in Germany.

In his white cottage atop Pine mountain, the President also may sign several important appointments, including some for the 20 Federal judgeship vacancies, unless these are attended to before he leaves. Most of these places are newly created. The President discussed nominees for the posts yesterday with Attorney General Cummings.

Informed persons said appointment of a successor to the late Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo on the Supreme Court was unlikely at this time.

Officials would not say whether any more cabinet changes were in the offing. Harry L. Hopkins, relief director, denied emphatically yesterday a report that he was to be transferred from WPA to the commerce secretaryship.

PRESERVATION OF GREAT LAKES INDUSTRY PROPOSED

Chicago, Nov. 19—(AP)—Representatives of the four states which border on Lake Michigan will meet here Monday and Tuesday with the intention of completing a draft of proposed uniform regulations designed to preserve the $2,000,000-a-year Lake Michigan commercial fishing industry.

The conferees will be legislators of Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana, who already have reached a tentative agreement on major points in the proposed regulations.

Regulations will become effective only after all the states have voted approval.

The conference, part of a regional assembly called by the council of state governments, is one of many held during the past 70 years in attempts to preserve the depleting Great Lakes fish supply. This year's conference is the first in which conferees have been members of state legislatures aided by permanent machinery for interstate co-operation.

Regulation of Great Lakes fishing is in the hands of each state bordering the lakes, with each enacting and enforcing laws governing its fishermen independently. There have been virtually no uniform regulations.

The proposed regulations involve closed seasons, size of fish of various species, and the size and type of fishing gear. Assemblyman Frank N. Graas of Wisconsin will preside over the fisheries meeting.

Engineers Inspected Big Mill; Saw Movie

The November meeting of the Rock River Chapter of the Illinois Society of Engineers was held in Sterling, Friday. Through the courtesy of the Northwestern Steel & Wire Co., an inspection trip was arranged for the afternoon and approximately 75 members of the society and their friends made this trip and witnessed the melting of steel electrically and the rolling and drawing into rods for the manufacture of wire fence products. Following the inspection trip through the steel mill a technicolor and sound picture entitled "Steel—Man's Servant" prepared by the U. S. Steel Corporation on the manufacture of steel was presented at the State theater, where approximately 500 people witnessed this very beautiful production.

At 7:00 p. m. the engineers enjoyed a banquet at the Elks club in Sterling where 100 members of the society and friends were present. C. R. Wiggins of the Northwestern Steel & Wire Co., gave an interesting talk on "Modern Steel."

Among the visitors who enjoyed the program with the members of the Illinois Society of Engineers were the Hon. George S. Brydia of Prophetstown, recently elected state representative from this district, and the Hon. Henry J. White, of Somonauk, also state representative from this district.

Confessed Slayer's Case Will go to Grand Jurors

Chicago, Nov. 19—(AP)—Emmett Moynihan, assistant state's attorney, said today he would seek a grand jury indictment Monday charging Joseph Kadlecek, 27, with murdering Ella Pehrson, 30-year-old cosmetics saleswoman.

Moynihan said Kadlecek confessed stabbing the woman to death Wednesday night when she resisted his advances. Her body was found stuffed in a closet at Kadlecek's room where she had gone in an effort to sell him an electric razor.

The body was identified at the county morgue last night by the victim's husband, Hjalmer Johnson, 32, a rural mail carrier of Camdon Station, Minn.

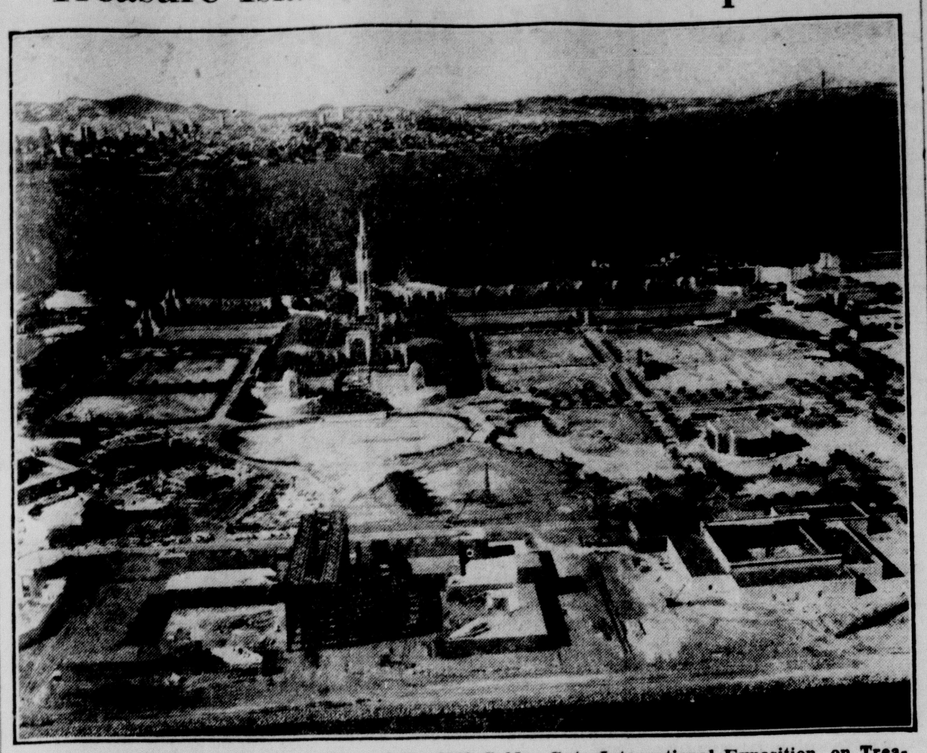

Later Johnson and Miss Lorraine Pehrson, 21, Minneapolis, sister of the dead woman, confronted Kadlecek at a district police station. The prisoner had nothing to say.

Johnson said his wife went to work for a cosmetics concern at Minneapolis and was transferred to Chicago in August, 1937. He described her as hard working and thrifty and said "We had counted on saving everything we could to buy a home."

An inquest will be held Monday.

Standard Oil Co. Has New Annuity Program

Chicago, Nov. 19—A new employe retirement plan, recognizing past and future service of 25,000 employes and providing for old age security, was announced by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Normal retirement ages were fixed at 65 for men and 60 for women.

Stockholders will be asked to approve the plan at a special meeting at Whiting, Ind., Dec. 22.

The program, in one phase, provides that for service after Dec. 31, 1938, annuities will be purchased from the Equitable Life Assurance Society. Employes voluntarily may accumulate two per cent of their monthly salary up to $250 per month and five per cent of all wages above that figure. The company will match each dollar of the savings. The amount each employe accumulates will be invested each year in annuities assuring a monthly income after retirement. Ten years' service give the employe a vested right in the company's payments to the insurance company on his behalf.

Should the employe leave the company or die before that time, his estate would receive his contributions plus 2½ per cent compounded interest.

Principal Witness in Bombing Trial Wounded

St. Louis, Nov. 19—(AP)—Lee Baker, 39-year-old Negro, principal state's witness against Isadore Londe, former Egan gangster charged with bombing a cleaning shop, was found shot three times beside a little-used road early today.

Baker was taken to the county hospital, where physicians said his wounds were not critical. He told county authorities he was taken in an automobile by two men, who shot him and dumped him alongside the road about 8 o'clock last night.

Londe, paroled in March, 1936, from the Michigan state penitentiary, where he served a term for robbery, was scheduled to go to trial on the bombing charge Monday.

Amazons, according to Greek legend, were a tribe of women who allowed no men in their country, Asia Minor, and spent most of their time hunting and warring.

Bishop Here

Friday night found a large company of people assembled for the opening service in a series of evangelistic meetings to be held in Bethel United Evangelical church, Galena and Morgan.

Rev. C H. Mengel, above, Bishop of the Evangelical Congregational church is in charge. He spoke of "The Supreme Need of the Day", and emphasized the importance of reviving fundamental morality in the life of mankind everywhere.

A large chorus choir has been organized and the music will be under the direction of Dick Weyant.

On Sunday morning at 10:45 Bishop Mengel will speak on "The Kind of a Revival We Need", and in the evening at 7:30 he will discuss "The Steps We Must Take to Obtain This Revival."

Services will be conducted every evening next week, except Saturday, at 7:30 o'clock. The Prayer Band will meet each evening at 7.

FBC GRADUATES

Washington—(AP)—Three Illinois police officers today joined the growing ranks of law enforcement officials trained by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

As graduates of the ninth session of the National Police Academy, they were awarded diplomas by Attorney General Cummings and J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI.

The three were Officer Alex Brebner of Lake Forest, Chief Jacob J. Novak of North Chicago and Assistant Superintendent Lawrence M. Taylor of the Illinois state highway maintenance police. Taylor was president of the class.

There are more than 48,000 communities in the United States that depend entirely upon the highways for their transportation facilities since they do not have railroad service.

Cub Pack Doings

The Cubs of Pack 323 of the South Central school held a Pack meeting in the gymnasium Friday after school. The meeting opened with the pledge of allegiance to the flag followed by singing led by Assistant Cubmaster, Mr. Lynch. The Cubs answered to the roll call by naming their favorite breakfast food. A brief check was made on the achievements and announcements made concerning the next achievement council.

The Den Chiefs took charge of the game period. Two teams played basketball and the remainder of the Pack participated in various other games such as balloon bursting, discus throwing, push ball, etc. The meeting closed promptly at 4:30 with the Cubs gathering in Den groups, forming the living circle and repeating the Cub promise.

The Pack is planning for a Cub-Parent meeting to be held in the assembly room of the South Central school on Monday evening, Nov. 28. Every Cub is to be present with one or both of his parents These Cub-Parent meetings are very important if the cub program is to be successful.

Two new Den Chiefs have been added to the group of leaders in the Pack. Eustace Shaw of Scout Troop 89 is leader of Den number one and Marshall Bunnell of Scout Troop 72 is chief of Den four meeting at Mrs. David Kirk's. Martin Stanford is Den Chief of the Den meeting at the home of Mrs. Willard Moore.

Floyd Lynch, Principal of the South Central school is Assistant Cubmaster of the Pack and will have charge of the Pack meetings and assist Mr. Moore in other ways. Mr. Lynch is planning to have a Pack meeting in the gymnasium once each month to take the place of the den meetings during that week.

APPLE GROWERS' PLANS

Hardin, Ill. — (AP) — Calhoun county apple growers considered today plans for a $250,000 storage and processing plant which would enable them to double their market and obtain better prices.

Calhoun, the largest apple-growing county in Illinois, has no cold storage facilities.

Under the plans, the plant would have storage space for 300,000 bushels of apples, vinegar and apple juice plants and an icing plant. Half of the funds would be obtained through a loan from the reconstruction finance corporation, the other half by local subscriptions.

It is reported that an automotive tractor-trailer was first built in California for use in Australia in 1898. The tractor-wagon was powered with a 75-horsepower motor using crude petroleum.

"MICKEY" HIGGINS, BORN GIRL, WANTS TO BECOME A MAN

Los Angeles, Nov. 19—(AP) — Physicians sought a surgical way today to gratify the wish of Lila "Mickey" Higgins, 24, born a girl, to become a man.

In Superior court for sentencing on charges that she stole $12,000 from a firm where she was employed as a male cashier, Miss Higgins was sent to a hospital for observation on orders of Judge Ingall W. Bull.

Dr. Glenn E. Meyers reported to the court:

"The patient told me she has always considered herself a boy and that she had numerous fights in which she has been able to knock men across the room.

"She always held employment as a man, and was 'married' to another woman several years. She shaves twice a week, and her male sexual components are too preponderant and too accepted preferably by herself to permit her changing to normal feminine interests."

The girl insisted her name is Lionel Michael Francis Higgins, but her mother, interviewed by probation officers, said "Mickey" was christened Lila. She was 17, the court was informed, when she left her home in Paris, Texas, to join a traveling orchestra as a saxophone and trumpet player. She came to Los Angeles with the orchestra.

Slayer of Sweetheart Gets 21-Year Sentence

Chicago, Nov. 19—(AP)—William Frank Raab faced a 21-year prison term today for slaying his sweetheart, Mrs. Marie Lamont, comely, red-haired florists' clerk.

The 38-year-old night club floorman was convicted of murder yesterday in one of the city's speediest criminal trials.

Criminal Court Judge William J. Lindsay passed sentence after hearing the testimony without a jury. Raab had entered a plea of innocence.

"She said she wanted to die," Raab testified, stating he had choked the victim until she "went limp."

The body of Mrs. Lamont, 27, was found, nude, in Raab's hotel room September 7.

ROSE BOWL GAME.

Norma, Okla.—(AP) —It's a little early but Roy Randerson, student at the University of Oklahoma, thinks he has a date with Deanna Durbin, movie star, for the Rose Bowl game of 1940.

After seeing a recent Durbin picture Randerson rang her up even though it was 2 A. M.

Miss Durbin couldn't be disturbed but she called back—day rate collect from Hollywood—the next day.

"I hear you go with one of my fraternity brothers at University of Southern California," said Randerson. "I'm a member of the chapter here. How about a date for the Rose Bowl?"

Other fraternity brothers listening in on the fraternity house telephone extensions reported Deanna informed Randerson she was "dated" but that if he cared to write her she would take his proposal under consideration if it was good for the 1940 game.

CAR IN ITS 'EYE'

Frankfort, Ky.—(AP)—When a man with a badly-lacerated, bloody right hand came to his office, Dr. Tom Leonard, Frankfort physician, asked several questions to learn whether a police report would be necessary.

Shamefacedly, the patient said: "I hate to tell you. My car choked on top of the hill and I got out to crank it. The thing wouldn't start and I got so all-fired mad at it I socked it in the eye. I poked my fist through the headlight."

A watch is something which if you look at long enough it will be too late to do what you were going to do before you looked at it.

Bulletin: More than 1,200,000 persons are living in homes financed under the FHA plan, and the number is being increased by 12,500 weekly.

Approximately 1,200,000 people can't be wrong. FHA must be a good thing. Why not let us explain to you how you, too, can take advantage of its benefits?

Mrs. Jones—Didn't you ever catch your husband flirting?"

Mrs. Brown—"Why, that's just how I did catch him."

Teacher: "As we walk outdoors on a cold morning and look about us, what do we see on every hand?"

Pupil: "Gloves."

LEGION CALLS FOR PUBLIC SUPPORT OF PROBING COMMITTEE

Indianapolis, Nov. 19—(AP)—The executive committee of the American Legion ended a three-day annual meeting here today and turned over to the national headquarters staff its renewed fight on communism, fascism and anarchism.

Yesterday the committee adopted resolutions asking a Federal law for expulsion from the United States of alien communists or anarchists and upholding the Dies congressional committee in its investigation of un-American activities.

The committee urged exclusion or deportation of "aliens who are members of anarchist, communist and all other groups who (sic) advocate the overthrow of our government by force and violence."

The committee said Harry Bridges, west coast director for the Congress of Industrial Organizations, was "a glaring example of the indifference of the Federal authorities to expel undesirable aliens."

The committee asked public support and a new appropriation for the Dies committee, which it said was "arousing the American people to the dangers now existing within the nation's borders."

Richard Hartshorne of New Jersey, chairman of the law and order committee, said the Legion still stood for freedom of speech.

"Advocates of fascism and communism are active throughout the country," he told the committee. "The Legion is active both in combating these isms and in furthering the true principles of democracy."

Headquarters for the 1939 Legion already have been opened in Chicago, Phil W. Collins, executive vice president of the convention corporation, said. The convention will open Sept. 25.

GUARDS WERE SURE

South Bend, Ind. —(AP)—A defendant stayed in a hospital unguarded while awaiting trial on a Federal narcotics charge.

The reason is simple. He had athlete's foot on one foot and the Federal officers had the other leg locked up—it's cork.

THIS WEEK'S WEATHER

As Forecast by Prof. SELBY MAXWELL Noted Meteorologist

Rains Will Return to the Arid West

It will no doubt come as a surprise to most of you to learn that people are still leaving the "Dust Bowl," in spite of 1938 being a good crop year. And the problem is one that affects the east almost as much as the west, for food prices are food prices. The refugees say that rain alone can do them little good now, for they have not the seed grain, nor the animals, nor the machinery to begin life anew in the dry section.

There are other families, no doubt, in that arid strip along the eastern face of the Rocky Mountain highlands who are wondering whether or not it will pay them to remain. Letters come to us nearly every day from farmers and farmers' wives all the way from New Mexico to North Dakota, asking if it is really worth while to hang on. They want to know what the future holds for them. To answer these letters we computed the probabilities of rain for the United States for the next five years.

Our long range forecast for rain in the food area of the west shows that during the next five years there will be four years of fair to good crops, and possibly one year of failure. In our opinion there is no need for families to move now.

Part of the "Dust Bowl" used to be one of America's richest food producing sections. When farm lands are reduced to desert, it affects the dinner table of every wage earner in America, and makes the price of shoes, clothes, flour, and meat higher than they would be otherwise. The ruined families of the "Dust Bowl" are our neighbors, and when famine and depression stalk the agricultural west, it follows as the night the day that the industrial cities of the east will find no outlet there for manufactured products.

There are many uncertainties in such a long look into the future, we freely grant, but the predictions given here are the best answer that science can offer at the moment. If anyone wants to know what lies beyond the five years' forecast that we give here, we have seven years more—still more tentative, of course, but not without value to long range planners. I will mail it free to all who ask for it. An explanation for laymen as to how scinece attempts to look so far into the future is also given. Just ask for "Extreme Range Forecasts."

Weather Questions

Q. How do you distinguish cyclones, tornadoes and hurricanes from each other? W. L. S.

A. The only difference is one of size. Hurricanes are small, violent whirls of air. Tornadoes, or cyclones, are even smaller and even more intense whirls. The damage these whirling winds do is sometimes great. There is no adequate protection from them, except insurance.

Q. Would you kindly inform me as to weather conditions in western Pennsylvania, including Pittsburgh, for the coming winter? Also the flood conditions. L. J. K.

A. There will be moderate snows in western Pennsylvania during the coming winter, and the weather will alternate sharply between cold waves and warm waves. In the spring the weather will be late and cold, and the snowfall moderate to brisk. The 1939 floods will probably not be as high as will the 1940 floods.

A. The wave motion of water extends below the surface. As a wave nears a sloping beach, it is refracted, or bent toward the land, and sweeps in nearly parallel to the beach.

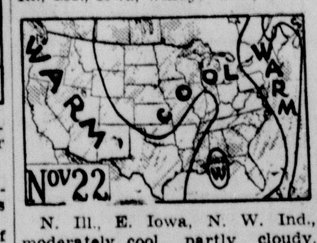

Humidity Card to Guard Your Health

Now that winter is upon us, the air in our homes becomes too dry for comfort and health. So Professor Selby Maxwell again offers his Humidity Card. This card contains a chemically treated tab which turns pink when the air is sufficiently damp, but remains a vivid blue when the air is dry enough to menace the health of you and your family. You need this humidity card in your home. It will be sent free. Address your request to Prof. Selby Maxwell, enclosing a 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply. Just ask for "HUMIDITY CARD."

L. C. E. meeting at 6:45 P. M. Maxine Galor will be the leader. The service at 7:30 P. M. will be in charge of the ladies of the Woman's Missionary society. This will be their annual thankoffering service. Mrs. Seager is prominent in missionary work not only in our Illinois branch but throughout our denomination and is a very interesting public speaker. The ladies of the W. M. S. are requested to bring their thankoffering to this service. Our mid-week prayer service is at 7:30 Wednesday evening. This is followed by senior choir rehearsal at 8:15. The junior choir will meet at the parsonage at 2 P. M. Saurday and will be followed immediately by the pastor's class in catechism. The union thanksgiving service will be held in this church at 7:30 Wednesday evening, Nov. 23. Rev. Sidney Bloomquist will preach the sermon.

First Christian — Lloyd Van Lovell, minister. There will be two conferences on christian education within reach of Polo people this week. We hope that workers from this church will be able to attend one of them. One is at Princeton, Wednesday, the other at Jackson Boulevard Christian church, Chiacgo, Friday. Wilbur Pickering, Ogle county superintendent of schools, will speak at the evening service next Sunday on "The Relation of the Church to the Field of Education." There will be an open discussion on the subject after Mr. Pickering's address. We especially invite to this service all who are interested in education. Sunday, Nov. 20. Morning worship, communion and sermon at 10:00 A. M. Church school, R. W. Maxey, supt., 11:00 A. M. Evening service at 7:30.

WOMEN'S GROUPS MEET

The Methodist Episcopal Women's groups met Thursday afternoon. The "Busy Boosters" at Mildred Lauritzen with Jennie Wahl, Grace Ross and Margaret Allshouse assisting. Irene Gonigam had charge of the devotions, the opening song was "The Beauty of the Earth," her Scripture lesson Psalm 107. Mrs. Wesner and Mrs. Lucille Bolz sang a duet "Come All Ye Faithful." A responsive reading was given, "Litany of Thankful Hearts." Mrs. Orpha Schrader read the song "Adoration and Praise." Mrs. C. M. Knight read an article "Thankful Thanksgiving;" Hazel Short "Our Thanksgiving;" Emma Nellick, "Thanksgiving." After a short business meeting conducted by Mrs. Renwich, the meeting closed with the Doxology. Refreshments were served.

The "Lively Leaders" met at Mrs. Nelle Kruse assisted by Lillian Burkey and Alta Melton. Miss Daisy Castner had charge of the devotions, opening song was "O Worship the King," the responsive reading was on Thanksgiving and the prayer by Dr. Street. Miss Castner read an article, "Lest We Forget" and this was interspersed with quotations by the members. The devotions closed with the doxology. After a short business session by Arlena Clark the group spent the afternoon making bed pads and in mending clothing for the needy. There were twelve members present, five guests, Mrs. J. T. Johnson, Mrs. George Dahl, Mrs. Lee Kruse, Rev. and Mrs. Street and three juniors. Refreshments were served.

The "Plucky Partners" met at Mrs. Cecil Snider's with Mrs. Dora Perkins and Mrs. Frank Swanson assistant hostesses. There were eight members present, one guest, Mrs. Conkling and three juniors. Mrs. Swanson had the devotions and she chose the fourth chapter of Philipians as her topic. She read an article on the first Thanksgiving and closed with a prayer. Mrs. Johnson then conducted the business meeting. The rest of the afternoon was spent in making the posters for the turkey dinner which is to be held in the church on Dec. 1. Refreshments were served.

The "Willing Workers" met at Amelia Langford's, with Mrs. Rosa Langford, Mrs. Ella Black and Miss Eva Clayton assisting. Bernice Schoaf had charge of the devotions. The Scripture lesson and prayer pertained to Thanksgiving. The roll call was answered by quotations she had given the members. She read an article "Friends of Mine." Mrs. Pierson conducted the business. Mrs. Posner gave the Bible study. Refreshments were served.

All four circles made contributions to the Red Cross.

HAMILTON CLUB MET

The Hamilton club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Eva Dell Hoffman and Mrs. Carrie Anderson as assistant hostess. Mrs. Ann Jontz opened the meeting with the song "Home on the Range." Twenty members responded to roll call with "My Ideal Way of Spending Thanksgiving." The election of officers was held which resulted as follows: President, Ann Jontz; vice-president, Rose Brandenburg; secretary-treasurer, Geraldine Raabe; press correspondent, Blanche Gumbie; community singing was enjoyed after the brief business meeting. Poliyanna gifts were given to Carrie Anderson, Fanny Hedspeth, Millie Magnuson, and Miss Emma Dimmig. A miscellaneous shower was given Mrs. Mildred Martinson, a recent bride. She received many beautiful gifts. The rest of the afternoon was spent in playing "bunco," there being five tables at play. Miss Emma Dimmig received high prize and Effie Forrest low. The guests were Miss Florence Kihlstrom, Miss Emma Dimmig, Miss Eleanor Hoffman and Mrs. Mildred Martinson. A delicious lunch was served.

AUXILIARY MEETING

The Christian Women's Auxiliary of the Christian church held their meetings on Thursday afternoon. The "Happy Rustlers" met at the home of Mrs. Edna Epperson with Mrs. Daisy Wolfe assisting. Twelve members were present, one guest, Mrs. Roy Glaze and four juniors. Mrs. Viola Fisher opened the meeting with the song "Wonderful Words of Life." Mary Colvin read the first Scripture lesson, Deut. 28:1 to 6; Leona Clark read Matt. 5:3 to 11 and Mrs. Epperson offered a prayer. Mrs. Nina Gerbitz reviewed the first section of Hurlburt's Book of the Bible. Questions with answers followed. The devotions closed with "Blest be the Tie That Binds." Mrs. Fisher conducted a short business session. This group who sponsored Dr. Holland's lecture cleared $40. The meeting closed with the Mizpah. Refreshments were served.

PENNY PINCHERS

The "Penny Pinchers" met with Mrs. William Gauschow, Mrs. Elmer Nellick assistant hostess. Eighteen members were present, two guests, Mrs. Martha Watkins, Mrs. John Cassner and two juniors. In the absence of Mrs. Joe Hopkins, Mrs. Meta Wolf presided. The opening song was "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," followed by the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Maude Renner had charge of the devotions, the Scripture Lesson was Psalm 3. She conducted the study from Hurlburt's Book of the Bible. Grace Foss had chapter 13 and Mrs. Renner chapters 14 and 15. Mrs. C. B. Lancaster and Mrs. Bertha Renner will be the December hotesses. The short business session was conducted by Mrs. Wolf. The benediction closed the meeting. Refreshments were served. The "Valiant Recruits" met with Mrs. I. T. Tower. Lucille Burkey and Anna Malmberg assisting. Mrs. Rote opened the meeting with the song, "Wonderful Words of Life." Mrs. Iva Chandler then took charge of the devotions, reading Exodus 20. She read short articles on each commandment. Mrs. Rote conducted the business. "Count Your Many Blessings" was the closing song, followed by the Lord's Prayer and the Mizpah. Twelve members were present, one guest, Mrs. Helen Gloden and two juniors.

The "Duty Doers" met at the home of Rev. Ford. Mrs. Ford was hostess. Mrs. Lelia Gauschow opened the meeting with the song "America the Beautiful." Mrs. Martha Walrath had charge of the devotions. Her song was "Have Thine Own Way Lord." Her topic was "Thanksgiving." Mrs. Mary Frederick read the Scripture lesson, Psalm 103. Mrs. Ford read a poem on "Thanksgiving," and Mrs. Walrath gave the story of Zaccheus. The closing song was "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," and Mrs. Lycus closed the devotions with prayer. Mrs. Gauchow conducted the business. Eleven members were present and three juniors. Refreshments were served.

The four divisions voted to buy the necessary dishes for the kitchen and each will have a "grab bag" at their Christmas party. The chicken dinner will be served at the church on Saturday evening beginning at 5o'clock, and the public is invited.

LEARN OF DEATH

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Renner received a message from their daughter, Helen, that her son, Gene, has passed away Friday morning in a New Orleans, La., hospital. He had been ill but a short time and died of acute inflammation of the kidneys. Gene was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Doyle.

Sales Tax Collection on Autos to be Changed

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19—(AP)—State Finance Director S. L. Nudelman announced today that on and after Dec. 1 the state will revise its rule on assessing the three per cent sales tax on the list price of new automobiles.

Under the new ruling, the sales tax will be computed on the actual cash paid plus the "fair trade-in value" of the old car. When used cars are sold, the tax will be computed on the sales in the same manner as on new merchandise.

Nudelman said the revision follows a Cook county Circuit Court decision. The court held the full list price of new automobiles could not be taxed where dealers allowed purchases more than the actual value of their old cars. Heretofore the list price of cars has been the basis of computing the sales tax.

The finance department will entertain refund claims, Nudelman said, of dealers who can show they paid a greater sum on auto sales that would be required under the new ruling.

FOUND HE COULD SWIM
Cheyenne, Wyo. —(AP)—W. C. Lewis, plumber, couldn't swim a stroke until he saw his wife drowning and he had to save her.
"Under those circumstances a fellow could paddle with an anvil around his neck," he says.
It happened when their boat capsized while fishing in Snake River. Lewis had to churn the water for 60 yards to do it.

That combination of nitrogen and hydrogen known as ammonia at one time was obtained by destructive distillation of the horns and hoofs of animals. The resulting solution of the gas was known therefore as spirit of hartshorn.

HEARD ON RADIO

The C. T. Nelson family and a number of Rochelle people were pleasantly surprised at 2:45 p. m. Armistice Day, when they heard Mr. Nelson's sister, Isabelle Neison of Chicago, singing "Till We Meet Again" over station WCFL. She took part in the Legion program which was presented at that time. Miss Nelson has a lovely soprano voice and has sung many times over the radio but until recently she has made her home in Minneapolis. She spends her time doing radio work and has written several dramatic sketches. Perhaps she is now in Chicago, she may be heard by the Rochelle people more often.

LAST RITES FOR HARRY SAEGER

Funedal services for Harry Saeger were held on Thursday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Harpst in Freeport, and interment was made in Oakland cemetery. Mr. Saeger passed away suddenly Tuesday morning about 7 o'clock in the family apartment on the second floor of the Commercial building. He had been ill with heart trouble for about two months.

Mr. Saeger was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Saeger and was born in Freeport, March 24, 1903, and at the time of his death was 38 years of age. He learned the plasterer's trade, and after coming to Ashton was employed for some time on the state colony buildings in Dixon.

On August 27, 1927, he was united in marriage to Miss Hattie Steder whose folks live in Bradford township. Mrs. Saeger with three daughters, Sylvia, Carol and Emily, remain to mourn the loss of a husband and father. Mr. Saeger is also survived by his mother, four brothers and three sisters in the vicinity of Freeport. The brothers are Roy, Herman, Carl and Paul and the sisters are Mrs. George Harpst, and Misses Edith and Ruth, at home.

The Saeger family has resided in our village about two years and their friends here extend sympathy to the members of the family.

N. Y. SOCIAL REGISTER

New York, Nov. 19—(AP)—A Vanderbilt once said, "There has been no New York society in the strict sense of the term since 1914," but anyway the 1939 New York Social Register appeared Friday, and the names filled 881 pages.

Even at that, it's shorter by two pages than the listing of 1938 so the old guard, that bemoaned the growth of the "400" into several thousand with dozens of "sets," had cause to rejoice.

The Vanderbilt name appears 10 times in the new book.

Various branches of the Roosevelt family fill nearly a page.
